ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Many hands, hearts and minds contributed to the production of this book. Above all, we would like to thank the authors of the chapters for their cheerful, thoughtful and timely responses to our deadlines, our queries and our sometimes heavy-handed editing. This book is as much theirs as it is ours.

We would like to thank the members of the organization Concerned Philosophers for Peace (CPP), who introduced us to one another and who nurtured our interest in the philosophy of peace. Joseph Kunkel, Executive Director of CPP, provided us with moral and administrative support throughout the project. Together with James Sterba, Duane Cady, and Robert Holmes, he helped us make appropriate publication decisions and negotiate a contract. Sheldon Cohen, with the support of the Philosophy Department of the University of Tennessee at Knoxville, hosted the CPP conference at which the idea for this book was born. Members of the CPP Executive Committee who helped make that conference possible include Duane Cady, James Sterba, William Gay, Richard Werner, Joseph Betz, Michael Fox, Paula Smithka, Ron Hirschbein, and Ernest Partridge. We are grateful for permission to include the article by Linda Rennie Forcey, "Women as Peacemakers: Contested Terrain for Feminist Peace Studies," Peace & Change 16:4 (October 1991), 331–354, reprinted by permission of Sage Publications, Inc.

Our editor at Rodopi, Robert Ginsberg, encouraged us with his unflagging enthusiasm for peace studies and for our work in this area. Linda Weiner Morris of educational publishing resources, our freelance copy editor and desktop publisher, worked swiftly and accurately to prepare the manuscript for publication and to draft a bibliography and index. She helped us recognize numerous details that go into manuscript preparation that we might have otherwise overlooked. Computer assistance at earlier stages was provided by Joey Council and Charlotte Simpson at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, who helped us organize the files; and by Alan Plastow and Paula Roski at Walsh University, who spent hours of their precious time helping us translate files into Word Perfect to prepare them for copy-editing. UNC Charlotte Teaching Assistant Meg Blazek helped us condense an early version of the index.

Secretarial assistance was provided by Linda Miltner and Martha Capeta at Walsh University and by Vicki Griffith and...
Acknowledgments

Travis Snead at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. Without their help typing manuscripts, corresponding with authors, photocopying papers, fielding telephone calls and sending faxes, our scholarly work would not be possible. A special thanks is due to William Gay, Chair of the Philosophy Department at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, for his administrative assistance when one of us was busy with a family emergency during a crucial stage in manuscript preparation.

Finally, we thank our spouses, Penny Bove and Charles Kaplan, for lovingly providing ideas, editorial assistance, encouragement and childcare during the many stages of this project.
