LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

Francis Brooks, PhD, is a retired Senior Lecturer in History at Flinders University, South Australia. His recent publications include “Motecuzoma Xocoyotl, Hernán Cortés, and Bernal Diaz del Castillo: The Construction of an Arrest”, Hispanic American Historical Review 75(2), 1995, 149–183; and “Revising the Conquest of Mexico: Smallpox, Sources, and Populations”, Journal of Interdisciplinary History 24(1), 1993, 1–29.

David Cahill, PhD, is a Queen Elizabeth II Research Fellow at the University of New South Wales, Australia, in the Department of Spanish and Latin American Studies. His recent publications include Hapsburg Peru: Images, Imagination and Memory, Liverpool University Press, 2000 (jointly with Peter Bradley); and The Inca and Corpus Christi: The Feast of Santiago in Colonial Cuzco, CEDLA, Amsterdam, 1999.

Lawrence Clayton is a Professor of History at the University of Alabama, USA. His recent publications include A History of Modern Latin America, Harcourt, Brace, 1999 (jointly with Michael Conniff); Los EE.UU y el Perú: 1800–1995, Centro Peruano de Estudios Internaciones y Xerox del Perú, 1998; and Peru and the United States: The Condor and the Eagle, University of Georgia Press, 1999.

Bruce Hodgins is a Professor Emeritus of Trent University, Canada, and currently Visiting Professor of Canadian Studies at Duke University, USA. He is co-author of The Temagami Experience, University of Toronto Press, 1989 (jointly with Jamie Benidickson) and has published extensively on the history of the Canadian North, Aboriginal peoples, Federalism and Canoes.

Linda Newson is a Professor of Geography at King’s College London. She specialises in the impact of early Spanish colonial rule on indigenous peoples in Latin America and the Philippines. Her recent publications include Life and Death in Early Colonial Ecuador, University of Oklahoma Press, 1995; and she is currently writing a book on the early colonial Philippines.

George Raudzens is a former Associate Professor of Modern History at Macquarie University, Australia, and is currently Honorary Research Fellow there. His publications include The British Ordnance Department and Canada’s Canals, Wilfrid Laurier University Press, 1979; Empires, Europe and Globalization, 1492–1788, Sutton, Stroud, 1999.

Armstrong Starkey is a Professor of History at Adelphi University, New York. His recent publications include European and Native American Warfare, 1675–1815, UCL and University of Oklahoma Presses, 1998. He is particularly interested in the cultural background of eighteenth century warfare and has contributed articles on this subject to the Journal of Military History and War and Society.