NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

ANDRZEJ BUSZA, a poet, translator, and Conrad scholar, is Associate Professor in the Department of English and the Programme in Comparative Literature at the University of British Columbia. His publications include Conrad’s Polish Literary Background, an edition of The Rover with J. H. Stape, and most recently an essay on Conrad and the Moderns in a special issue of the Stanford Humanities Review devoted to the career of Ian Watt.

MICHAEL GREANEY is a Lecturer in English Literature at Lancaster University. He is currently completing a book entitled Conrad’s Story-tellers, on linguistic communities and narrative methods in Conrad’s major fiction.

GENE M. MOORE is a Lecturer in English at the University of Amsterdam. The author of Proust and Musil: The Novel as Research Instrument (1985) and editor of Conrad’s Cities (1992) and Conrad on Film (1997), he has recently co-authored The Oxford Reader’s Companion to Conrad (2000) and is currently co-editing Suspense for the Cambridge Edition of the Works of Joseph Conrad.

ALLAN H. SIMMONS is a Senior Lecturer in the English Department at St. Mary’s College, Strawberry Hill. He has published widely on the work of Joseph Conrad. His recent publications include the Centennial Edition of The Nigger of the “Narcissus” for Everyman and contributions to The Oxford Reader’s Companion to Conrad.

J. H. STAPE has taught at universities in Canada, France, and the Far East. His recent publications include a critical edition of Virginia Woolf’s Orlando (1998) and contributions to The Oxford Reader’s Companions to Hardy and to Conrad. He is co-editing Lord Jim for the Cambridge Edition of the Works of Joseph Conrad.

ROBERT W. TROGDON is Assistant Professor of English at Kent State University and Assistant Executive Director of the Cambridge Edition of Joseph Conrad. He is the editor of Ernest Hemingway: A Documentary Volume (1999) and author of various articles on Hemingway.

Ludmilla Voitkovská is Assistant Professor of Comparative Literature and Slavic Studies at the University of Saskatchewan, and has published on cultural studies, translation, and linguistics. She is presently working on a book entitled The Generic Structure of The Expatriate Novel in Conrad and Nabokov.

Note on Citations