Contributors

CLAUDE BÉRARD is Professor in the Faculté des Lettres of the Université de Lausanne. He is author of Anodoi: Recherches sur l’imagerie des passages chthoniens (1974), and many articles on Greek iconography. Coeditor of Images et société en Grèce ancienne: L’iconographie comme méthode d’analyse (1987), along with François Lissarrague, he is one of the coauthors of La cité des images (1984; A City of Images [1989]).

DAVID CASTRIOTA is Associate Professor of Art History at Sarah Lawrence College. His areas of interest include public monuments in Classical Athens and Augustan Rome, and Celtic art in Iron Age Europe. The recipient of grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities and the American Philosophical Society, he is the author of Myth, Ethos, and Actuality. Official Art in Fifth-Century B.C. Athens (1992) and The Ara Pacis Augustae and the Imagery of Abundance in Later Greek and Early Roman Imperial Art (1995).

BETH COHEN, editor of this volume, has also edited The Distaff Side: Representing the Female in Homer’s Odyssey (1995). She is coauthor of The Odyssey and Ancient Art: An Epic in Word and Image (1992), author of Attic Bilingual Vases and Their Painters (1978), and articles on Greek and Italian Renaissance Art. The recipient of fellowships from the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the National Gallery of Art, and the National Endowment for the Humanities, she teaches at the Graduate School of Figurative Art of the New York Academy of Art.

KEITH DeVRIES is Associate Professor of Classical Studies at the University of Pennsylvania and Associate Curator of the Mediterranean Section in the University of Pennsylvania Museum of Anthropology and Archaeology. He has worked on archaeological projects in Italy, Greece, and especially Turkey, where he has long been a member of the Gordion team. He has written on the archaeology and social history of both the Greek world and the neighboring Near Eastern cultures and is author of the forthcoming Homosexuality and the Athenian Democracy.
HELENE P. FOLEY is Professor of Classics, Barnard College, Columbia University. She is author of Ritual Irony: Poetry and Sacrifice in Euripides (1985); co-author of Women in the Classical World: Image and Text with Elaine Fantham, Natalie Kampen, Sarah Pomeroy, and H. Alan Shapiro (1994); author and editor of The Homeric Hymn to Demeter (1994); editor of Reflections of Women in Antiquity (1981); and author of many articles and reviews on Greek literature.

CELINA GRAY is a doctoral candidate in the Graduate Group in Ancient History and Mediterranean Archaeology at the University of California at Berkeley. Her current projects include work on the iconography of Attic grave-reliefs. In addition to her research in Greek art and gender issues, she has excavated at Halai and Nemea.

FRANÇOIS LISSARRAGUE, formerly Chargé de Recherches at the Centre nationale de la recherche scientifique, is Directeur d'Étude at the École des hautes études en sciences sociales in Paris. Along with Claude Bérard, he contributed to La cité des images (1984; A City of Images [1981]). He is author of Un flot d'images: une esthétique du banquet grec (1987; The Aesthetics of the Greek Banquet: Images of Wine and Ritual [1990]), L'autre guerrier: archers, peltastes, cavaliers dans l'imagerie attique (1990), and many articles on the iconography of Attic vase painting.

TIMOTHY J. McNIVEN is Associate Professor in the Department of the History of Art at the Ohio State University, where he received the University Distinguished Teaching Award in 1996. His research on the use and meaning of gestures in Athenian vase painting forms the basis for a lexicon that he is presently preparing for publication. His articles include “Odysseus on the Niobid Krater,” JHS (1989), “The Unheroic Penis: Otherness Exposed,” SOURCE (1995), and “Dionysos and the Underworld in Toledo,” Museum Helveticum (1996) with Sarah Iles Johnston.

MARGARET C. MILLER is an Associate Professor and the Chair of the Department of Fine Art at the University of Toronto. She has excavated in England, Egypt, Turkey, and Greece. Her research interests include Attic pottery and iconography and archaeological evidence for social history. She is the author of Athens and Persia in the Fifth Century B.C.: A Study in Cultural Receptivity (1997). At present she is engaged in a book on the iconographic Orientalization of Greek myth in Attic art.
CONTRIBUTORS

JENIFER NEILS, the Ruth Coulter Heede Professor of Art History at Case Western Reserve University, organized the exhibition Goddess and Polis: The Panathenaic Festival in Ancient Athens (with catalogue, 1992) and edited a related volume of symposium papers Worshipping Athena: Panathenaia and Parthenon (1996). Currently writing a book on the Parthenon frieze, she has worked extensively on Greek iconography, contributed to the Lexicon Iconographicum Mythologiae Classicae, and is the author of The Youthful Deeds of Theseus (1987).

JOHN H. OAKLEY is Chancellor Professor of Classical Studies at The College of William and Mary in Virginia. His books include The Phiale Painter (1990), a volume of the Corpus Vasorum Antiquorum (1993), and The Achilles Painter (1997). Recently Visiting Professor at the University of Canterbury in Christchurch, New Zealand and Elizabeth G. Whitehead Visiting Professor at the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, he has been a Fellow of the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

ROBIN OSBORNE is a Professor of Ancient History in the University of Oxford and Fellow and Tutor of Corpus Christi College. He has written widely on Greek history (Greece in the Making 1200-479 B.C. [1996]), archaeology (Demos: the Discovery of Classical Attika [1985]; Classical Landscape with Figures: the Ancient Greek City and its Countryside [1987]), and art (Archaic and Classical Greek Art [1998]).

J. MICHAEL PADGETT is Associate Curator of Ancient Art at The Art Museum, Princeton University. He has been a curatorial assistant at the Minneapolis Institute of Fine Arts (1983-84) and the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston (1986-90), and Curator of Classical Art at the Tampa Museum of Art (1990-92). He has written several articles on Greek vase painting and sculpture and is coauthor of Vase-Painting in Italy: Red-Figure and Related Works in the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston (1993).

MARIA PIPILI is Director of the Research Center for Antiquity of the Academy of Athens. Her main interests are Greek vase painting and iconography. Her publications include Laconian Iconography of the Sixth Century B.C. (1987) and two volumes of the Corpus Vasorum Antiquorum, Athens, National Museum fasc. 4: Attic Black-
Figure Skyphoi (1992) and Athens, Private Collections fasc. 1 (forth­com­ming), as well as several contributions to the Lexicon Iconographicum Mythologiae Classicae.

H. A. SHAPIRO is Professor of Classics at The Johns Hopkins University. A former Fellow of the American School of Classical Stud­ies at Athens, the Alexander von Humboldt-Stiftung, and the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation, he is the author of Art and Cult under the Tyrants in Athens (1989; Supplement 1995); Personifications in Greek Art (1993); Myth into Art: Poet and Painter in Classical Greece (1994); and co-author of Women in the Classical World (1994).

ANDREW STEWART is Chancellor’s Research Professor of Greek Art and Archaeology at the University of California at Berkeley. He is the author of five books, including Greek Sculpture: An Explora­tion (1990); Faces of Power: Alexander’s Image and Hellenistic Politics (1993); and Art, Desire, and the Body in Ancient Greece (1996). He has excavated at Knossos and at the Maori settlement at Long Beach, New Zealand. Since 1986 he has directed the U.C. Berkeley exca­vations at the city of Tel Dor in Israel.

ROBERT F. SUTTON, Jr. is Associate Professor and Coordinator of Classical Studies at Indiana University—Purdue University, Indi­anapolis. He has also taught at Loyola University of Chicago and the University of Florida, Gainesville and recently led the Summer Session of the American School of Classical Studies in Athens. The author of several studies on the representation of gender and sexual­ity on Athenian vases, he has participated in archaeological surveys in the Nemea valley, the southern Argolid, and on the Cycladic is­land of Keos in Greece, and has contributed to their publication.

DESPOINA TSIAFAKIS is a Classical archaeologist and art histo­rian with specialties in Attic Pottery and Greek Archaeology. Her PhD dissertation on Thracians in Athenian iconography of the fifth century B.C. has recently been published by the Educational Insti­tute of Komotini (Thrace). She is the Greek-language translator of Brian Sparkes, The Red and the Black: Studies in Greek Pottery (1996). From 1996–99 she was Curatorial Assistant of Antiquities at The J. Paul Getty Museum.