ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This volume owes an enormous amount to the assistance, good will, and encouragement of a large number of friends and colleagues. We began tentative discussion of the possibility of a collaborative project on Athena in 1994, and thereafter started to organise a conference which eventually took place at Lincoln College, Oxford in April 1998. The present volume has developed out of some of the papers delivered at this conference.

For their initial interest in, and encouragement of, the conference, we thank Barbara Levick, Robin Osborne, Bert Smith, and Anton Powell. We are grateful to Andy Fear who has maintained our various world wide web pages. Through the generous financial support we received from the following bodies, we were able to enlarge the conference beyond what we had previously thought possible: the Classical Association of England and Wales; the Craven Committee, Oxford University; the Faculty Board of Literae Humaniores, Oxford University (General Purposes Committee); the Jowett Copyright Trustees; the A.G. Leventis Foundation; the Meyerstein Fund, of the Committee for Archaeology, Oxford University; The Society for the Promotion of Hellenic Studies; and the University of Wales Institute of Classics and Ancient History.

We are pleased to be able to acknowledge the audience at the conference for their stimulation of lively debate, and encouragement of the validity of our endeavour. Our aim was to bring together scholars from many different backgrounds to enable a mutually beneficial exchange of ideas and approaches, questions (and, where possible, answers), and we hope that we went some way to achieving this. What is more, we have made many new friends, and benefited from ongoing discussions since the conference. In particular, we thank Anna de Pretis, Daniel Gershenson, Leslie Hammond, Virginia Hicks, Barbara Kowalzig, Eleanor Sibley and Chikako Sugawara. We also thank those scholars who contributed details of their work to the booklet which accompanied the conference: John-Gabriel Bodard, Francis Cairns, Stephen Evans, Heide Frielinghaus, Tony Keen, Birte Lundgreen, Jenny McBride, Daniel Ogden, Eva Parisinou, Karen Pierce, Gilza Saldanha da Gama, Julia Shear, Mark Usher, Elisabetta Villari, Mary Voyatzis and Tim Whitmarsh.
We are grateful for the help and support we have received since we began editing this volume, a task which has involved developing themes which emerged during the conference. For helpful comments on the introduction and related matters we are grateful to Susanne Ebbinghaus, Keith Hopwood, Barbara Kowalzig, Nino Luraghi, Astrid Möller, Stavros Paspalas, Frank Waschek, and also the contributors to the volume. Bodo Prekel helped in compiling the index. We also thank the contributors for their patience, continued encouragement, and for commenting so readily on circulated drafts of chapters. We are grateful to Brill's anonymous reader for his comments. We are indebted to Julian Deahl, Michiel Klein Swormink, Job Lisman, Marcella Mulder, Loes Schouten and Gera van Bedaf at Brill for their interest, advice and continued support throughout the editing process.

Finally, we are delighted to have this opportunity to offer our thanks to John Boardman, Robert Parker and Stuart Rae, who rendered invaluable assistance at all stages of the project, as did Stephen Clifford, who also joined us in the administration of the conference, and in managing our finances, both for the conference and subsequent expenditure entailed in the editing of this volume.

Susan Deacy, Manchester
Alexandra Villing, Athens
April 2001