

Grief, Gender, and Identity in the Middle Ages

Explorations in Medieval Culture

General Editor

Larissa Tracy, Longwood University

Editorial Board

Tina Boyer, Wake Forest University

Emma Campbell, University of Warwick

Kelly DeVries, Loyola University Maryland

David F. Johnson, Florida State University

Asa Simon Mittman, CSU, Chico

Thea Tomaini, USC, Los Angeles

Wendy J. Turner, Augusta University

David Wacks, University of Oregon

Renée Ward, University of Lincoln

VOLUME 18

The titles published in this series are listed at brill.com/emc

Grief, Gender, and Identity in the Middle Ages

Knowing Sorrow

Edited by

Lee Templeton

BRILL

LEIDEN | BOSTON

Cover Illustration: Miniature from Guillaume de Lorris and Jean de Meung, Roman de la rose, ms Français 380, fol. 4r. Source gallica.bnf.fr/Bibliothèque nationale de France.

The Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data is available online at <https://catalog.loc.gov>
LC record available at <https://lccn.loc.gov/2021921390>

Typeface for the Latin, Greek, and Cyrillic scripts: "Brill". See and download: brill.com/brill-typeface.

ISSN 2352-0299

ISBN 978-90-04-31512-9 (hardback)

ISBN 978-90-04-49969-0 (e-book)

Copyright 2022 by Koninklijke Brill nv, Leiden, The Netherlands.

Koninklijke Brill nv incorporates the imprints Brill, Brill Nijhoff, Brill Hotei, Brill Schöningh, Brill Fink, Brill mentis, Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, Böhlau Verlag and V&R Unipress.

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, translated, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise, without prior written permission from the publisher. Requests for re-use and/or translations must be addressed to Koninklijke Brill nv via brill.com or copyright.com.

This book is printed on acid-free paper and produced in a sustainable manner.

*In memory of my parents
Glenda Rae Templeton (1939–1985) and
Willis L. “Bill” Templeton (1939–2013)*

And I said, let grief be a fallen leaf at the dawning of the day.

PATRICK KAVANAGH, "On Raglan Road"

Contents

- Acknowledgements IX
Notes on Contributors X
- Introduction: Grief, Gender, Identity 1
Lee Templeton
- 1 “Era omne de grant corazón”: Gendered Grief, Sorrow, and Zeal in Medieval Castilian History Writing 15
Kim Bergqvist
- 2 Maternal Lament and Misremembering in *Dispute between Mary
and the Cross* 37
Kisha G. Tracy
- 3 Forbidding Feminine Grief: Affective Exploitation in the Brome Sacrifice of Isaac 53
Jeffery G. Stoyanoff
- 4 Permanent Grief: Time and the Production of Sainthood in the Old
English Life of Euphrosyne 76
Erin I. Mann
- 5 Grief, Gender, and the Birth of Lyric in Old Norse Poetry 94
Inna Matyushina
- 6 Gender and Death from Grief in Medieval Scandinavian Texts 118
Kristen Mills
- 7 “The Noble Way You Blushed”: Queering Mourning Verse
in the Ulster Cycle 142
Marjorie Housley
- 8 “... agus ag ól a fola”: Ingesting Blood and Engendering Lament
in Medieval Irish Literature 165
Danielle Marie Cudmore

- 9 "Sorrow wil meng a mans blode and make him for-to wax wode"
*Representations of Male and Female Grief-Madness in Middle English
Arthurian Romance* 190
Drew Maxwell
- 10 Transformative Tears: Grief and Masculine Identity in Sir Orfeo 210
Lee Templeton
- 11 Feeling It Like a Man: Masculine Grief in Medieval and Early Modern Texts 234
Jim Casey
- Bibliography 259
Index of Subjects 286

Acknowledgements

I would like to offer my warmest thanks and deepest gratitude to: Larissa Tracy, series editor of Explorations in Medieval Culture, for her invitation to submit to the series and her support along the way; Marcella Mulder at Brill for her patience and guidance; Maire Johnson for assistance in filling a gap in coverage in the manuscript; the administration at North Carolina Wesleyan College for granting my sabbatical request in the fall of 2016, which allowed me to begin work on this collection; my colleagues at North Carolina Wesleyan College for their willingness to take on additional responsibilities during my sabbatical, as well as for their support and friendship throughout the years; Brill's anonymous reader, who provided thoughtful comments on earlier drafts; Dan Connolly for compiling the index; and my family for their steadfast and boundless support.

Finally, I would like to thank the contributors to this collection, without whom this volume would not have been possible.

Notes on Contributors

Kim Bergqvist

is a PhD Candidate in the Department of History at Stockholm University, Sweden. He has been a visiting researcher at Universidad de Navarra, University of Oslo, Cornell University, Københavns University, and Columbia University. He specializes in political, cultural, and comparative history, and the history of emotions. He is currently completing his doctoral dissertation entitled Ethics, Politics, and Chivalry: Aristocratic Ideology in Castile-León and Sweden, c. 1275–c. 1350.

Jim Casey

is the Appropriations in Performance editor for Borrowers & Lenders: The Journal of Shakespeare and Appropriation. Although primarily a Shakespearean, he has published on such diverse topics as fantasy, monstrosity, early modern poetry, medieval poetry, pedagogy, textual theory, performance theory, postmodern theory, adaptation theory, digital humanities, old age, comics, anime, masculinity, the supernatural, Shakespeare, Chaucer, Ovid, Firefly, and Battlestar Galactica. He is a Fulbright Fellow, the recipient of a National Endowment for the Humanities Grant, the editor of Shakespeare and Fletcher's The Two Noble Kinsmen, and the co-editor of the collection Shakespeare/Not Shakespeare with Christy Desmet and Natalie Loper.

Danielle Marie Cudmore

received her Ph.D. in Medieval Studies from Cornell University in 2015 and is currently a lecturer in English at Halmstad University in Halmstad, Sweden. Her interests include language and literature in medieval North Sea Europe and representations of the natural world in medieval literature. She is co-editor and contributor for Imagining the Supernatural North (2016, University of Alberta Press).

Marjorie Housley

received a Ph.D. in English Literature from the University of Notre Dame. She specializes in gender and emotion in Anglo-Saxon, Celtic, and Norse heroic literature.

Erin I. Mann

is Dean of the Division of Humanities at Volunteer State Community College. She specializes in medieval literature, in particular issues of sexuality, religion, and the family.

Inna Matyushina

is an Honorary Professor at Exeter University and Professor at the Russian State University for the Humanities. She has published extensively on Russian literature, Old English, Old High German and Old Norse poetry and prose, as well as on issues in translating poetic and dramatic texts. Her publications include the following monographs: The Functions of Rhyme in Alliterative Verse (1986); The Magic of the Word: Skaldic Libellous Verse and Love Poetry (1994); The Earliest European Lyrics (1999, Two volumes); Skaldic Poetry (Co-authored with Elena Gurevich, 2000); The Poetics of Chivalric Sagas (2002); Words before blows: The Tradition of Flyting in Old Germanic Culture (2011); and the edited collection The Rise of Lyrical Poetry (with Sergey Neklyudov, 2007).

Drew Maxwell

is a part-time faculty member in the English Literature department at Trent University and has taught a wide variety of medieval literature courses. Drew has published and presented scholarly work on Chaucer, medieval romance, and medievalism.

Kristen Mills

is Associate Professor of Irish and Old Norse Philology in the Department of Linguistics and Scandinavian Studies at the University of Oslo. She specializes in the history of emotions, constructions of gender, and the cultural history of death and dying in medieval North Atlantic literatures and cultures. Recent publications include “Death, Women, and Power: Theme and Structure in Reicne Fothaid Canainne,” in Ériu 68 (2018); “The Corpse and the Conqueror: The Curious Afterlife of Ívarr inn beinlausí,” in the Journal of English and Germanic Philology 118 (2019); and “Murnan on Mode: Grief in Early Medieval England,” in Sense and Feeling in Daily Living in the Early Medieval English World, edited by Maren Clegg-Hyer and Gale Owen-Crocker (Liverpool: Liverpool University Press, 2020).

Jeffery G. Stoyanoff

is an Assistant Professor of English at Pennsylvania State University – Altoona. He specializes in medieval and early drama and is currently working on a book, Dramatic Networks: Recovering Queer Figures in Medieval English Drama.

Lee Templeton

is Associate Professor of English at North Carolina Wesleyan College. He specializes in issues of gender, grief, and chivalric identity, particularly in Middle English literature. His work has appeared in Medieval Perspectives, Sound Fabrics: Studies on the Intermedial and Institutional Dimensions of Popular Music, and

The Ballad of the Lone Medievalist. He is the co-editor, with Amy N. Vines, of New Directions in Medieval Mystical and Devotional Literature: Essays in Honor of Denise N. Baker.

Kisha G. Tracy

is an Associate Professor of English Studies specializing in early British and world literatures at Fitchburg State University in Massachusetts. She received her Ph.D. in Medieval Studies from the University of Connecticut in 2010. In addition to several articles, her first book was published by Palgrave in 2017 and is entitled Memory and Confession in Middle English Literature.