Bibliography of J.G. de Casparis

The following bibliography is a revised version of an earlier one compiled for the commemorative volume presented to Professor J.G. de Casparis in 2001 on the occasion of his 85th birthday.¹ For the earlier bibliography, the list De Casparis had provided of his publications (50 titles) turned out to be incomplete. De Casparis had left out his book reviews and several other publications. Recent titles were also missing. When asked about this, he answered, in his usual way, that the reviews were not so very important. It was impossible to get more information from him. Apparently he had not even kept a record of his recent publications. As a result we kept finding new publications, and this bibliography may still be incomplete, even though it contains 31 more titles than the one published in 2001 and now comprises 107 titles. A complicating factor in finding his publications is that De Casparis had contacts in many different parts of the world, so that publications are found not only in the expected volumes and journals published in Europe, but also in journals and commemorative volumes published in various Asian countries such as India, Indonesia, Malaysia, Sri Lanka, and Thailand.²
