Editorial

The Editors-in-Chief of Church History and Religious Culture are delighted to introduce a new colleague, Dr. Joep van Gennip from Tilburg University (the Netherlands), who will especially be responsible for the submissions related to the period after 1650. As of our next issue, he will become Jan Wim Buisman's successor as an Editor-in-Chief. The latter will continue his work as Book Review Editor, however. We are confident that our editorial team will be enhanced by this valuable staff augmentation. Aza Goudriaan and Ward Holder wish to take this moment to thank Dr. Jan Wim Buisman for his guidance of the journal during his tenure as Editor-in-Chief since 2008, his unfailing zeal for the joy of historical discovery, and his good spirit that made collaborating such a joy.
