

Announcement from the Editors of T'oung Pao

The Editors of T'oung Pao announce the following changes to the journal, effective with volume 111 (2025). These changes follow a series of earlier innovations that at certain times have been introduced to the journal since its founding in 1890. The last major changes date from 2018, when the journal expanded from two to three issues per year. Today, we announce changes to the team of editors.

1. Following the retirement of Martin Kern (Princeton University; Editor 2009–2024), Paul R. Goldin (University of Pennsylvania) will join Vincent Goossaert (École Pratique des Hautes Études, Paris) and James Robson (Harvard University) as one of the three principal editors.
2. Following the retirement of Isabelle Ang (Book Review Editor 1996–2024), Béatrice L'Haridon (Université Paris Cité) and Paize Keulemans (Princeton University) will be the journal's new book review editors.