

History of European Political and Constitutional Thought

Call for proposals

Series Editors:

Erica Benner, László Kontler, and Mark Somos

brill.com/hepct

This series promotes the study of European traditions of political and constitutional thought from classical antiquity to the twentieth century. The series brings to its geographical, historical and thematic focus the full range of methods established in the field, from contributions on the conventional canon to comparative, transnational, global and critical approaches, while also aiming to foster new methodologies.

The editors welcome proposals for monographs, edited collections, and newly edited primary sources. The manuscript should be 80,000 – 180,000 words in length, including footnotes and bibliography. If your work is an exception to this, it is possible to discuss alternative solutions. The publisher accommodates a generous number of illustrations both in black and white and in colour.

Authors are cordially invited to submit proposals and/or full manuscripts to either the series editors, Erica Benner, László Kontler, and Mark Somos, or the Publisher at Brill, Alessandra Giliberto.

Open Access

Brill is in full support of Open Access publishing and offers the option to publish your monograph, edited volume, or chapter in Open Access. Our Open Access services are fully compliant with funder requirements and we support Creative Commons licenses. Charges are competitive, page-based, and tailor-made. We have special discounts for publications resulting from research funder policies. For more information, please visit Brill Open or contact us at openaccess@brill.com.