Instructions for Authors

Scope

This is an inclusive, non-Eurocentric, multi-disciplinary journal devoted to the study of temporal, spatial, economic, social, and linguistic aspects of ancient civilizations from the Old World, namely Africa, Asia, and Europe. We want to offer a comprehensive perspective on civilizations developed in these continents in pre-modern times, from prehistory to the fall of the Eastern Roman Empire (15th century AD).

- OW is an Open Access journal, fully-funded by the Research Centre of History and Culture (BNU-HKBU),
- OW is only published in a digital format.
- Submissions by both eminent and young scholars are welcome.
- Submissions may regard any aspects of the Old World: linguistics, history, archeology, art and architecture, philology, literature, philosophy, religion, economy, sociology, anthropology, etc.
- Submissions may regard any civilizations of Africa, Asia, and Europe, developed between prehistory and the 15th century AD, that is, the fall of the Eastern Roman Empire.
- Scholarly reviews are welcome as well.
- Special issues may be considered for publication.
- Articles must present original work and must have been submitted exclusively to OW.

Open Access

Old World. Journal of Ancient Africa and Eurasia (OW) is an Open Access journal fully funded by the Research Centre of History and Culture (BNU-HKBU), ensuring maximum, worldwide dissemination of content. Article Publication Charges for this journal are waived. The author(s) keep full copyright and give Brill permission to publish by signing a special Brill Open Consent to Publish.

Ethical and Legal Conditions

The publication of a manuscript in a peer-reviewed work is expected to follow standards of ethical behavior for all parties involved in the act of publishing: authors, editors, and reviewers. Authors, editors, and reviewers should thoroughly acquaint themselves with Brill's publication ethics, which may be downloaded here: brill.com/page/ethics/publication-ethics-cope-compliance.

Submission

OW uses online submission only. Authors should submit their manuscript online via the Editorial Manager (EM) online submission system at https://www.editorialmanager.com/OW. Upholding the highest standards for academic quality, analytical thinking and originality, Old World follows standard academic practice in sending all manuscripts to anonymous peer review to ensure the quality of its articles. Submitted papers will be checked by two anonymous reviewers, and the author will be notified about the editorial decision as soon as possible. If you have queries about the policy of the journal or its editorial process, please address the editors above.

Prior to submission, authors are encouraged to read the entire "Instructions for Authors."

File Format

Both papers and reviews should be sent as anonymized files. If there are any figures or tables, please submit separate files for each figure and table.

Submission Requirements

Language

Articles should be written in English, using American spelling and grammar, and should be consistent throughout. If English is not your native language, we recommend having a native speaker edit the article before submission. All foreign words should be accompanied by an English translation.

Non-Roman Scripts

If any non-Roman text is included, check the file carefully to see that it appears correctly, and please provide a PDF of the text file as a reference.

Any glosses and linguistic examples in your manuscript must be put into tables, please see pp. 8-10.

Length

Papers and reviews are not subject to a specific word or page limit.

Manuscript Structure

General

Papers can be submitted at first in any style, but we suggest using a 12 pt font throughout the text, including the footnotes. Use double space throughout the text, including footnotes. Please list bibliographical references at the end of the text. Upon acceptance of articles, authors will be required to put

Abstracts and Keywords

Article manuscripts must include an abstract at the beginning. The abstract consists of the aim, result, them into the required style of the journal, see these instructions for authors.

and conclusion of the research and is limited to 150 words. Do not provide an abstract for a book review or a book review essay. Please also provide 4-6 keywords that are important in your article.

Headings

Headings are unnumbered and should be flush (aligned) left. First level headings should be in bold, and second level headings should be in bold italics. Please try and use no more than two levels of headings.

This Is the First Level Heading

This Is the Second Level Heading

This is the Third Level Heading

If your paper needs more than 3 levels of heading, the headings must be numbered.

1   This Is the First Level Heading

1.1 This Is the Second Level Heading

1.1.1   This is the Third Level Heading

1.1.1.1 This is the Fourth Level Heading

Citations within the Text

Within the text, give a brief citation in parentheses consisting of the author's surname, year of publication, and page number(s) where relevant: (Cohen 1912:47). Use an ampersand (&) between two authors' names, and if there are more than two authors, use the surname of the first author, followed by et al.: (e.g., Blau & Hopkins 2000; Aspesi et al. 2008).

a. If the citation is of the work, either place everything in parentheses: (Weinreich 1954:75), or nothing in parentheses: More discussion of these issues can be found in Laferriere 1979.

b. If, by contrast, the citation is of the author, and the author's name is part of the text, then use this form: Fishman (1985:14) comments that…; As Blau & Hopkins (2000:7) point out…; Aspesi et al. (2008) compiled…

Footnotes

Use footnotes, numbered consecutively, and not endnotes. Each footnote should end with a full stop.

Bibliography/References

Articles must end with a bibliography, entitled References, of all works referred to in the article.

Quotations and Punctuation
All direct quotes must be cited. The author guarantees that all quotes are accurately spelled and precisely quoted from the source material.
For direct quotes, double quotation marks should be used (" "). For terms under consideration, glosses, and quotes within quotes, please use single quotation marks (' ').
Commas and periods are placed within closing quotation marks, whether single or double (." and ,' not ". or '.).
Colons, semicolons, question marks, and exclamation points are all placed outside closing quotation marks (unless they are part of the quoted material).
If quotations are three lines long or longer, please indent them with a white line of space above and below, and do not use quotation marks at the beginning and end of the quoted material.
Quotations can appear in languages other than English, including those written in other scripts, but these must be followed by their English translation and preferably also a transcription into Latin script.
After a period, only one space should be used.

Instructions for Authors

Italics

Please use italics (not bold) if you wish to emphasize words or phrases. Commonly used scholarly words should not be italicized, such as: ibid, et al, i.e., etc.

Foreign words that are not frequently used in English should be italicized. This includes Latin and Greek.

Transcription and Transliteration

Please use a consistent transcription method for all linguistic data. One of the common transcription methods should be used (e.g., IPA, oriental transcription, YIVO).

Words or phrases embedded in the text and written in Hebrew script should be accompanied by an English translation, and to the extent possible also by their Latin transliteration. An author's priority should be consistency; transliteration of words and proper names in Greek, Arabic, Hebrew, etc., should be consistent throughout.

Figures

Figures refer to graphs, charts, drawings, and pictures (black & white). All figures should be cited in the text (e.g., "As Fig. 1 indicates,"). The desired location of the figure in the text should be indicated by a placeholder such as "Figure 1 about here." Please submit each figure and table in a separate file.

The size of the figure must be appropriate for the journal. The quality of the figure must be suitable for printing - the resolution should be a minimum of 300 dpi (minimum 600 dpi for line art). The image itself must be sharp, and any text in the figure should be legible (at least 7 pt or larger).

There must not be any problems with the copyright to the figure in question; see point 6 of the Ethical and Legal Conditions above. Please also provide a separate file listing all figure captions.

Tables

Tables should be cited in the text. They should have short informative captions and be numbered consecutively in Arabic numerals. Table layout should be kept as simple as possible.

Publication

Proofs

Authors are responsible for checking the page proofs. They will receive a proof in .pdf format by e-mail that should be checked carefully for factual and typographic errors. At this stage, only minor corrections will be allowed. Authors are requested to return any corrections in a single e-mail to the Managing Editor within one week after receipt of their proofs.
