Scope

Rural China (RCHS) provides a forum for high-quality scholarly research on rural China and its 900 million peasants (by registration). It aims to help stimulate advances in both empirical and theoretical research, and welcomes submissions of articles based on original research, or new understandings of old research. It aims to promote internationalization of rural China studies and welcomes articles in either English or Chinese. There will be both an international edition of the journal, to be published by E. J. Brill, to appear in April and October every year, and a mainland China edition, to be published in China. The two editions will be essentially the same in content and include both articles in Chinese and articles in English.

Ethical and Legal Conditions

Please note that submission of an article for publication in any of Brill's journals implies that you have read and agreed to Brill's Ethical and Legal Conditions. The Ethical and Legal Conditions can be found here: brill.com/downloads/conditions.pdf.

Submission

RCHS now uses both online and email submission. Authors can either email their submissions to the editor at: ruralchinastudies@gmail.com, or submit their manuscript online via the Editorial Manager (EM) online submission system at: editorialmanager.com/rchs.

Using Editorial Manager

First-time users of EM need to register first. Go to the website and click on the "Register Now" link in the login menu. Enter the information requested.

When you register, select e-mail as your preferred method of contact. Upon successful registration, you will receive an e-mail message containing your Username and Password. If you should forget your Username and Password, click on the "Send Username/Password" link in the login section, and enter your first name, last name and email address exactly as you had entered it when you registered. Your access codes will then be e-mailed to you.

Prior to submission, authors are encouraged to read the 'Instructions for Authors'. When submitting via the website, you will be guided stepwise through the creation and uploading of the various files.
Instructions for Authors

A revised document is uploaded the same way as the initial submission. The system automatically generates an electronic (PDF) proof, which is then used for reviewing purposes. All correspondence, including the editor's request for revision and final decision, is sent by e-mail.

Double-blind Peer Review

Rural China uses a double-blind peer review system, which means that manuscript author(s) do not know who the reviewers are, and that reviewers do not know the names of the author(s). When you submit your article via Editorial Manager, you will be asked to submit three files. The first is the title page which includes the full title of the manuscript plus the names and complete contact details of all authors. The second file is the biographical note. These two files will not be accessible to the referees. All other files (manuscript, figures, tables, etc.) should not contain any information concerning author names, institutions, etc. The names of these files and the document properties should also be anonymized.

File Format

Please upload source files such as .doc, and not .pdf files.

Contact Address

For any questions or problems relating to your manuscript please contact ruralchinastudies@gmail.com. For eventual questions about Editorial Manager, authors can also contact the Brill EM Support Department at: em@brill.com.

Submission Requirements

General

Manuscripts should be double-spaced with one-inch margins on all sides.

Types of Contributions

The journal will publish mainly research articles. New and fresh reconsiderations of old research are also welcome.

Language

Articles are published in English or Chinese. Unusually important and excellent articles may be published in both languages. Spelling in the language used should be consistent throughout. Final versions must be proofread carefully before submission; please use your spelling and grammar checker.
Male-Oriented Language
Do not refer to sexually mixed groups of people by using male-oriented words (“men,” “man,” “brothers”) and do not personify such groups as male (“the Chinese revolutionary and his outlook”).

China
The journal will refer to China as “China” or the “People’s Republic of China.” Expressions such as “Red China” or “Communist China” will be avoided. Do not use vague terms such as “the Reds,” “the Communists,” or “the Chinese” when a more specific expression (the Chinese people, the Party, the government, the Central Committee, the China Travel Service) is in order. The term “Communists” should be applied only to Party members.

Length
Rural China will normally publish articles in the range of 20 to 40 pages, but longer articles will also be given serious consideration. Short commentaries may be included as parts of special issues or when appropriate.

Transliteration
Chinese
Use the pinyin system in transliterating Chinese terms and names. Wherever necessary, the old spelling may be put in parentheses on the first occurrence. In-text, authors may elect to use characters instead where preferable and appropriate. For titles in the References, characters followed by the English translation within parentheses is preferred to pinyin rendering of the title followed by the English translation. If characters are used for titles in the References, please also provide the characters for the author's name after the name in pinyin. Do not hyphenate given names (Zhou Enlai); hyphenate other words and terms only when necessary for clarity. Exceptions to the pinyin rule, for the sake of clarity, will be considered at the author's request. A reliable source for the pinyin system is the Xinhua zidian (Beijing: Shangwu yinshuguan, rev. ed., 1971).

Japanese
Follow the system of Kenkyusha’s New Japanese-English Dictionary (Tokyo: Kenkyūsha, 1954), but omit macrons over long vowels in well-known place names (e.g., Tokyo).

Korean
Follow the McCune-Reischauer system described in “The Romanization of the Korean Language,” Transactions of the Korean Branch, Royal Asiatic Society 29 (1939): 1-55, but substitute an umlaut for the breve.

Instructions for Authors

Manuscript Structure

Abstracts and Keywords
Please include an abstract of about 150 words and 4-5 keywords in both English and Chinese.

Headings
The text should be broken by headings to facilitate reading. Please use boldface for first-level heads.

In-Text Citations
Specify all English-language references in the text (and in the text of any notes) by the last name of author and year of publication, with pagination as appropriate. Do not use ibid., op. cit., loc. cit., supra, infra, or cf.; instead show subsequent citation of the same source in the same way as the first citation. For titles in English, provide full names in the citation only when the reference list includes more than one author with the same surname. For titles in Chinese and other East Asian languages, provide the author's full name. List complete information for every reference at the end of the article only, under “References.” Upon first mention of another scholar's name in the text, provide his or her first and last name, not just the last name.

Examples:
As a result, "the elite strengthened their control of the militia and therefore of the local areas" (Wei, 1985: 160). Please note the colon after the date.

Indeed, in the absence of any immediate need, many counties simply disbanded their militia at this time (Hunan zhengbao, December 20, 1912; Fu and Liu, 1933: 13-14, 17-18).

Italics
Use italics sparingly. Italicize foreign terms only at the first occurrence in the article.

Footnotes
Use notes for discursive comments, not for documentation. Superscripts (¹) for notes should be inserted in the text. All notes should be numbered consecutively and placed at the bottom of each page. Notes should be in the same 12 point font of the text and should be double-spaced. Please try to keep the number and length of footnotes to a minimum.
References
List all references alphabetically by author and (for works by the same author) chronologically by year of publication. Add DOI whenever available. In references, observe these standards:
1. List authors by their complete name. Use a comma after the surname of an author with an East Asian name only if the author’s work cited was written in a Western language and the author used Western name order.
2. When listing works by an author under both an English name and his/her Chinese name, be sure to cross-reference the names so that the reader is aware that it is the same person.
3. Do not use et al.; list the names of all collaborators.
4. Periodical data should be complete (volume, issue, month, pages, series).
5. Do not use italics or boldface.
6. In the transliteration of titles of works in East Asian languages, capitalize only the first word and proper names (e.g., Mao Zedong xuanji).
7. Give English translation in parentheses following titles of East Asian books and articles.
8. Provide English translations also of organizations or institutions that serve as “authors,” compilers, or editors. Examples:
   CHENG MAOXING (1936) Xianxing baojia zhidu (The current baojia system). Shanghai: Zhonghua shuju.
   Huailu xian zhi (Gazetteer of Huailu county) (1985 [1876]). Huailu: Huailu xian zhengfu.

Illustrations
Figures should be submitted as separate source files in .eps, .tif, or .jpg format, in a size suitable for the typesetting area of the journal, which is 118 x 180 mm. The resolution of these files should be at least 300 dpi for half-tone figures, and 600 dpi for line drawings. Number the files, and indicate in the manuscript where they are to appear (Fig. 1 here).
The text in a figure must be legible, and font size should not be smaller than 7 pt. The size of this lettering for any text in a figure should be the same for all figures in the manuscript.
Figure captions should not be attached to the figures but should be typed on separate pages and attached to the end of the manuscript.

Publication

Proofs
Upon acceptance, a PDF of the article proofs will be sent to the author by e-mail to check carefully for factual and typographic errors. In the event of a multi-authored contribution, proofs are sent to the first-named author unless otherwise requested. Authors are responsible for checking these proofs and are strongly urged to make use of the Comment & Markup toolbar to note their corrections directly on the proofs. At this stage in the production process only minor corrections are allowed. Alterations to the original manuscript at this stage will result in considerable delay in publication and, therefore, are not accepted unless charged to the author. Proofs should be returned promptly.

E-offprints
A PDF file of the article will be supplied free of charge by the publisher to authors for personal use. Brill is a RoMEO yellow publisher. The Author retains the right to self-archive the submitted (pre-peer-review) version of the article at any time. The submitted version of an article is the author's version that has not been peer-reviewed, nor had any value added to it by Brill (such as formatting or copy editing). The Author retains the right to self-archive the accepted (peer-reviewed) version after an embargo period of 24 months. The accepted version means the version which has been accepted for publication and contains all revisions made after peer reviewing and copy editing, but has not yet been typeset in the publisher's lay-out. The publisher's lay-out must not be used in any repository or on any website (brill.com/resources/authors/publishing-books-brill/self-archiving-rights).

Consent to Publish

Transfer of Copyright
By submitting a manuscript, the author agrees that the copyright for the article is transferred to the publisher if and when the article is accepted for publication. For that purpose the author needs to sign the Consent to Publish, which will be sent with the first proofs of the manuscript.
Open Access
Should the author wish to publish the article in Open Access he/she can choose the Brill Open option. This allows for non-exclusive Open Access publication under a Creative Commons license in exchange for an Article Publication Charge (APC), upon signing a special Brill Open Consent to Publish Form. More information on Brill Open, Brill’s Open Access Model and the Brill Open Consent to Publish Form can be found on brill.com/brillopen.
