Landscapes, Sources and Intellectual Projects of the West African Past
Essays in Honour of Paulo Fernando de Moraes Farias
Edited by Toby Green, Kings College London, and Benedetta Rossi, University of Birmingham

‘Stringing Coral Beads’: The Religious Poetry of Brava (c.1890-1975)
A Source Publication of Chimini Texts and English Translations
Edited by Alessandra Vianello, Lidwien Kapteijns, and Mohamed Kassim

Translocal Connections across the Indian Ocean
Swahili Speaking Networks on the Move
Edited by Francesca Declich, Università di Urbino Carlo Bo, Italy

Landscapes, Sources and Intellectual Projects of the West African Past outlines new directions in the historiography of West Africa. Its chapters explore new trends across regional and disciplinary fields with a focus on how political conjunctures influence source production and circulation.

‘Stringing Coral Beads’: The Religious Poetry of Brava (c.1890-1975) presents Sufi poems from Brava (on Somalia’s Benadir coast) in the town’s vernacular (Chimiini). They allow insight into their authors’ intellectual world and show how the common people of this East African port city lived and learned Islam.

The book describes the worlds where Swahili is spoken as multi-centred contexts that cannot be thought of as located in a specific coastal area of Kenya or Tanzania. The articles presented discuss a range of geographical areas where Swahili is spoken, from Somalia to Mozambique along the Indian Ocean, in Europe and the US.

READERSHIP: Academic libraries; scholars and graduate students in African, Islamic, Middle Eastern, Indian Ocean, and Somali studies; specialists in Bantu languages; Somali communities everywhere.

READERSHIP: Scholars and students of the Western Indian Ocean, historians, anthropologists.

Photographic Ekphrasis in Cuban-American Fiction

Missing Pictures and Imagining Loss and Nostalgia

Louisa Söllner, Eichstätt University

Photographic Ekphrasis in Cuban-American Fiction offers new readings of Cuban-American novels and autobiographies, demonstrating that a focus on photographs (alluded to, analyzed, and/or obsessively recurrent in the narrative discourse) provides fresh insights into these texts. The study introduces the concept of photographic ekphrasis as a reading tool for diasporic literature and argues that visual images are important components of narratives about dislocation, nostalgia, and transcultural experience. Authors treated in depth include Carlos Eire, Cristina García, Oscar Hijuelos, Roberto G. Fernández, Ana Menéndez, Achy Obejas, and Gustavo Pérez Firmat. Missing Pictures offers an original perspective on Cuban-American literature and contributes to the scholarship on ekphrasis and on the interactions between photography and narrative.

READERSHIP: All interested in Cuban-American literature and in the interaction between visual media and writing, scholars of diaspora, of photography theory, and of ekphrasis.
CyberResearch on the Ancient Near East and Neighboring Regions: Case Studies on Archaeological Data, Objects, Texts, and Digital Archiving

Edited by Vanessa Bigot Juloux, École Pratique des Hautes Études, Amy Rebecca Gansell, Harvard University, and Alessandro Di Ludovico, Sapienza University, Rome

CyberResearch on the Ancient Near East and Neighboring Regions provides case studies on archaeology, objects, cuneiform texts, and online publishing, digital archiving, and preservation.

Eleven chapters present a rich array of material, spanning the fifth through the first millennium BCE, from Anatolia, the Levant, Mesopotamia, and Iran. Customized cyber- and general glossaries support readers who lack either a technical background or familiarity with the ancient cultures.

READERSHIP: This volume will interest scholars and students of the ancient Near East as well as digital humanities researchers across disciplines.
Seafaring Expeditions to Punt in the Middle Kingdom

Excavations at Mersa/Wadi Gawasis, Egypt

Kathryn A. Bard, Boston University, and Rodolfo Fattovich†

In the 12th Dynasty the Egyptian state sent seafaring expeditions to the land of Punt from a harbor on the Red Sea. Excavations at Mersa/Wadi Gawasis have uncovered well preserved evidence of this harbor and the probable location of Punt.

READERSHIP: Egyptologists, historians and archaeologists working in the Near East, Egypt, and the Horn of Africa. Also scholars of nautical archaeology and nautical technology, and long-distance trade in the ancient world.

Peace in Ancient Egypt

Vanessa Davies, University of California, Berkeley

In Peace in Ancient Egypt, Vanessa Davies offers a new analysis of the ancient Egyptian concept of hetep (“peace”).

READERSHIP: All interested in Egyptian intellectual constructs, foreign relations, and Egyptian art.

The Chapters of the Wisdom of My Lord Mani

Part III: Pages 343-442 (Chapters 321-347)

Edited and translated by Jason BeDuhn, Northern Arizona University, Paul C. Dilley, University of Iowa, and Iain Gardner, Sydney University

In The Chapters of the Wisdom of My Lord Mani recounts Mani’s mission, teachings and debates in the courts of the Sasanian empire. The first of four fascicles constituting the editio princeps of one of the largest papyrus manuscripts ever recovered.

READERSHIP: All interested in the history of Late Antique religions, whether in the Roman or the Sasanian Empire, and the development of early Christianity.
Between Ordinary and Extraordinary

The Normativity of the Singular Case in Art and Law

Angela Condello

What is the relationship between the general, abstract norm and the singular, concrete case that sometimes affirms a parallel, contrasting, norm? The present essay engages with this question. The argument stems from an analysis of extraordinary singular cases that sometimes emerge, sometimes are “produced” or “promoted” as exemplary (for strategic reasons, like in law). In this essay Angela Condello argues that approaching normativity in art and law from the perspective of the singular case also illustrates the theoretical importance of interdisciplinary legal scholarship, since the singularity creates room for extra-legal values to emerge as legitimate demands, desires, and needs.
Chinese Research Perspectives on Population and Labor, Volume 4

12th Five-Year Review and 13th Five-Year Outlook

Edited by Cai Fang, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, and Zhang Juwei, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences

This volume is based on Green Book of Population and Labor No. 16 originally published in Chinese. Chapter one reviews developments in population and family planning during the 12th five-year plan period (2011–2015), presents forecast, and examines the relationship between demographic changes and economic development. Chapter two focuses on population movement trends and employment situation of rural migrant workers. The country’s overall employment situation in this period is presented in chapter three. Chapter four examines trends in China’s labor supply and demand. Chapters five and six look at recent progress in and development of China’s old-age insurance and medical insurance systems. As in previous volumes, this one contains policy suggestions for labor market development and population management.

READERSHIP: China watchers, researchers and students of contemporary China, activists and members of the public interested in China’s population and economy.
Chinese Research Perspectives on Society, Volume 4
Social Analysis and Forecast of China (2015)
Edited by Li Peilin, Chen Guangjin, and Zhang Yi

This volume gives an overview of China’s social conditions. Issues discussed include trends in the job market, income, consumption, social security, internet development and others. Groups such as urban residents, migrant workers and university students and graduates receive special attention.

READERSHIP: Libraries, China watchers, students of contemporary China, scholars, activists and members of the public interested in China’s society and social issues.

Chinese Research Perspectives on Society, Volume 3
Social Analysis and Forecast of China (2014)
Edited by Li Peilin, Chen Guangjin, and Zhang Yi

Contributors to this volume update readers on developments in areas such as income and consumption, industrial transformation and the job market, social security, healthcare, education, quality of life and the influence of the Internet on people and society.

READERSHIP: Libraries, China watchers, students and scholars of contemporary China, activists and members of the public interested in social development in China.

The Nonprofit Sector in Eastern Europe, Russia, and Central Asia
Civil Society Advances and Challenges
Edited by David Horton Smith, Boston College, Alisa V. Moldavanova, Wayne State University, and Svitlana Krasynska, Volya Institute for Contemporary Law and Society

The Nonprofit Sector in Eastern Europe, Russia, and Central Asia uniquely provides a timely overview of research on the nonprofit sector and nonprofit organizations in eleven former Soviet republics, with each central chapter written by local experts.

READERSHIP: All people interested in expert local views of nonprofit sector (NPS) in EERCA region and post-communist nations generally. Especially relevant to comparative study of NPS/nonprofits, with a Post-Soviet region focus.

The Life of Saint Pankratios of Taormina

Greek text, English translation and commentary

Edition, translation and commentary by Cynthia Stallman-Pacitti, University of Melbourne
Edited by John Burke, University of Melbourne

The Life of St Pankratios of Taormina describes the mission and martyrdom of St Pankratios, a disciple of the Apostle Peter sent to evangelize Taormina as its first bishop, and purports to have been written by St Pankratios’ successor, Euagrios. The text was composed in the early eighth century and is of Sicilian provenance.

This title contributes to our understanding of the Byzantine attitude to the past and of the novelistic approach to hagiography. It touches on the topography of Sicily and Calabria, ecclesiastical arrangements in Sicily, civil and military administration, the Sicilian language question, church decoration, liturgical rites, book production, and the attitude to religious images.

READERSHIP: Anyone interested in Byzantine Studies, the history of Sicily, hagiography, religious images and iconoclasm, liturgical studies, church history, pagans and Christians.
Dreams, Memory and Imagination in Byzantium
Edited by Bronwen Neil and Eva Anagnostou-Laoutides, Macquarie University, Sydney

This collection of studies on Dreams, Memory and Imagination in Byzantium reveals the distinctive and important roles of memory, imagination and dreams in the Byzantine court, the proto-Orthodox church and broader society from Constantinople to Syria and beyond.

READERSHIP: Students and scholars of ancient history and its reception in Byzantine philosophy and religion, Byzantine studies, medieval literature and the history of ideas, including the cult of saints.

Reanimating Qohelet’s Contradictory Voices
Studies of Open-Ended Discourse on Wisdom in Ecclesiastes
Jimyung Kim, Yonsei University, South-Korea

Ecclesiastes is a text filled with contradictions. In Reanimating Qohelet’s Contradictory Voices, Jimyung Kim, drawing on Mikhail Bakhtin’s insights, offers a reading that embraces the contradictions as they stand instead of harmonizing them or explaining them away.

READERSHIP: All concerned with the contradictions in Ecclesiastes, especially theological students and scholars who seek new meanings of the text for our era through new methods and perspectives.

Tradition and Innovation
Baptismal Rite and Mystagogy in Theodore of Mopsuestia and Narsai of Nisibis
Nathan Witkamp, Netherlands Centre for Patristic Research

In Tradition and Innovation, Nathan Witkamp convincingly argues that Narsai of Nisibis’ (d. ca. 503) baptismal rite and mystagogy, as portrayed in his Liturgical Homilies 21-22, is much less dependent on Theodore of Mopsuestia as has previously been supposed.

READERSHIP: All interested in early Syrian baptism and the baptismal rites of Theodore of Mopsuestia and Narsai, and all concerned with Theodore’s influence on Narsai and East Syrian Christianity.

The Trinitarian Testimony of the Spirit
Prosopological Exegesis and the Development of Pre-Nicene Pneumatology
Kyle R. Hughes, Whitefield Academy Atlanta

In The Trinitarian Testimony of the Spirit, Kyle R. Hughes offers a new approach to the development of early Christian pneumatology by linking the Holy Spirit with testimony to the deity and lordship of the Father and the Son.

The Origins of the Canon of the Hebrew Bible
An Analysis of Josephus and 4 Ezra
Juan Carlos Ossandón Widow, Pontifical University of the Holy Cross, Rome

In Origins of the Canon, Ossandón offers an analysis of Josephus’ Against Apion and 4 Ezra—the two earliest testimonies of the number of books of the Hebrew Bible—and proposes factors to explain the birth of the canon.

The Dangerous Duty of Rebuke: Leviticus 19:17 in Early Jewish and Christian Interpretation
Matthew S. Goldstone

In The Dangerous Duty of Rebuke Matthew Goldstone explores the ways religious leaders in early Jewish and Christian communities conceived of the obligation to rebuke based upon the biblical verse: “Rebuke your fellow but do not incur sin” (Leviticus 19:17).

READERSHIP: All interested in the history of the development of early Christian pneumatology, and anyone concerned with ancient rhetoric or the development of Trinitarian theology.

READERSHIP: All interested in Second Temple Judaism and in the formation of the biblical canon, and anyone concerned with Josephus or 4 Ezra.

READERSHIP: The Dangerous Duty of Rebuke is of interest to scholars of early Judaism and Christianity, as well as everyone interested in religious ethics, including clergy and religious laity.

Brill Research Perspectives
There has been a steady demand for the first edition of the conifer book PINES, which sold out in 2002. Therefore, a second edition, which is a modest update, was written. The book Pines was never an attempt at monograph in the taxonomic sense. Rather it was an overview with line drawings of the commonly known species of pines, giving concise but essential information on identification, distribution and ecology. Introductory texts explained botanical characteristics of pines and a chapter on classification, one on phylogeny and biogeography, and a glossary, index and short bibliography completed the book. This scope and structure have been maintained in the second edition. It was necessary to make several taxonomic changes, to add or omit a few species, present a new chapter on phylogeny and classification and amend or correct, even expand, some of the information given in the first edition, especially in the species accounts. Conservation aspects have been added to species accounts in a concise format, following IUCN evaluations. The author has maintained the original drawings and made amendments only to correct errors; drawings for additional species have been added in the same style. The book contains a total of 92 drawings and 103 distribution maps. With these amendments the information should have been updated to a satisfactory level, without altering the original format and scope.

Inquisitionis Hispanicae Artes: The Arts of the Spanish Inquisition.
Reginaldus Gonsalvius Montanus

A Critical Edition of the Sanctae Inquisitionis Hispanicae Artes aliquot (1567) with a Modern English Translation

Edited by Marcos J. Herraiz Pareja, Universidad de Castilla-La Mancha, Ignacio J. García Pinilla, Universidad de Castilla-La Mancha, and Jonathan L. Nelson, ProMETA

The Inquisitionis Hispanicae Artes (Heidelberg, 1567), written by exiled Spanish Protestants, is the first systematic denunciation of the Spanish Inquisition. Its first part is a description of the Inquisition's methods, making use of the Inquisition's own instruction manual, which was not publicly known. Its second section presents a gallery of individuals who suffered persecution in Seville during the anti-Protestant repression (1557-1565). The book had a great impact, being almost immediately translated into English, French, Dutch, German, and Hungarian. The portraits very soon passed into Protestant martyrologies, and the most shocking descriptions (torture, auto de fe) became ammunition for anti-Spanish literature. This critical edition presents a new text as well as, for the first time, extensive notes.

READERSHIP: All interested in Early Modern religious history, toleration, dissidence, Reformation and Inquisition.

Encyclopedia of Early Modern History, Volume 6
(Geodesy – Indulgence)

Offering 400 years of early modern history in one work, experts from all over the world have joined in a presentation of the scholarship on the great era between the mid-15th to the mid-19th centuries. The perspective is European. That does not mean, however, that the view on the rest of the world is blocked. On the contrary: the multifaceted interrelatedness of European and other cultures is scrutinized extensively.

Gal Ventura explores the ideological sources promoting maternal breast-feeding in modern Western society, through a survey of hundreds of artworks produced in France from the French Revolution to the beginning of the twentieth century.

Readership: Scholars and students interested in art history and visual studies, French studies, gender studies, women's studies, nineteenth-century French art, breastfeeding, nursing, maternity and childhood.

Early Modern Shipping and Trade

Novel Approaches Using Sound Toll Registers Online

Jan Willem Veluwenkamp and Werner Scheltjens

The articles collected in this volume are examples of the kind of research that can be done with the online database Sound Toll Registers Online (STRO). They show how STRO boosts the writing of the history of European maritime transport and trade, and how its use contributes to our knowledge of that history.

Revisiting Unity and Diversity in Federal Countries
Changing Concepts, Reform Proposals and New Institutional Realities
Edited by Alain-G Gagnon, Université du Québec à Montréal, and Michael Burgess

The principal aim of this book is to revisit the basic theme of “unity and diversity” that remains at the heart of research into federalism and federation. It is time to take another look at its contemporary relevance to ascertain how far the bifocal relationship between unity and diversity has evolved over the years and has been translated into changing conceptual lenses, practical reform proposals and in some cases new institutional practices.

Drones and Other Unmanned Weapons Systems under International Law
Stuart Casey-Maslen, University of Pretoria, Maziar Homayounnejad, University of Warwick, Hilary Stauffer, United Nations, and Nathalie Weizmann, United Nations

The Companion to International Humanitarian Law offers a much-needed tool for both scholars and practitioners, supplying information accessible enough to enable a variety of users to quickly familiarise themselves with it and sufficiently comprehensive to be a source for reflection and further research for more demanding users. Its aim is to facilitate the practical application of IHL, and be of use to a wide audience interested in or confronted with IHL.

In Investigating Civilian Casualties Alon Margalit discusses the appropriate response to State-caused fatalities. Highlighting various legal and practical challenges, the State's duty to investigate is considered amid increasing public scrutiny and influence of human rights law during military operations.

READERSHIP: All interested in public international law, in particular humanitarian law and human rights law, and anyone concerned with military justice and war studies or working in conflict and post-conflict settings.

Drone strikes have become a key feature of counterterrorism operations in an increasing number of countries. This work explores the various domestic and international legal regimes that govern the manufacture, transfer, and use of armed drones as well as fully autonomous weapons systems where computer algorithms decide who or what to target and when to fire.

READERSHIP: Legal scholars and practitioners, postgraduate courses on law or international relations, diplomats, activists and security experts, including those specialised in counterterrorism.

Joint Development of Offshore Oil and Gas Resources in the Arctic Ocean Region and the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea

John Abrahamson, Australian National University

In Joint Development of Offshore Oil and Gas Resources in the Arctic Ocean Region, John Abrahamson analyses the competing maritime claims in the Arctic Ocean region, and the potential use of Joint Development Zones to address the related resource conflicts.

The Organisation of the Anthropocene

In Our Hands?

Jorge E. Viñuales, The University of Cambridge

In The Organisation of the Anthropocene, J. E. Viñuales explores the legal dimensions of the currently advocated new geological epoch called the Anthropocene, in which humans are the defining force.

Comparative Discrimination Law

Age as a Protected Ground

Lucy Vickers

This comparative review of age as a protected ground in discrimination law explores the underpinning questions and themes related to two main dimensions of age discrimination. The first dimension is structural, economic and labour market driven, whereby age is used to allocate a range of rights, obligations and benefits within society. The second is the social justice and equality dimension, in which age is understood as an aspect of individual identity that is worthy of protection against indignity or detriment.

READERSHIP: All interested in continental shelf claims to offshore oil and gas resources in the Arctic Ocean region and potential use of joint development zones for cooperative resource development.

READERSHIP: All interested in understanding the meaning and implications of the Anthropocene for social organization.

The Menorah
Evolving into the Most Important Jewish Symbol
Rachel Hachlili, University of Haifa

The Menorah, the ancient seven-armed candelabrum, was the most important Jewish symbol both in the Land of Israel and the Diaspora. The menorah was the most important of the Temple vessels and it also came to symbolize Judaism, when it was necessary to distinguish synagogues and Jewish tombs from Christian or pagan structures. This book is a continuation of Hachlili's earlier comprehensive study, The Menorah, the Ancient Seven-armed Candelabrum: Origin, Form and Significance (Brill, 2001). It entails the compilation and study of the material of the past two decades, presenting the theme of the menorah, focusing on its development, form, meaning, significance, and symbolism in antiquity.

READERSHIP: All interested in Jewish and Christian art and archaeology, especially in the main Jewish symbol - the menorah.

Comparing Grief in French, British and Canadian Great War Fiction (1977-2014)
Anna Branach-Kallas, Nicolaus Copernicus University, Toruń, and Piotr Sadkowski, Nicolaus Copernicus University, Toruń

This study of historical, sociological, philosophical and literary sources, shows how, by both consolidating and contesting national myths, fiction continues to construct the 1914-1918 conflict as a cultural trauma, illuminating at the same time some of our most recent ethical concerns.

The French Nonprofit Sector
A Literature Review
Laura Nirello, Centre Lillois d’Etudes et de Recherches Sociologiques et Economiques, and Lionel Prouteau, University of Nantes

This article deals with the literature on the French nonprofit sector (NPS).

READERSHIP: All readers interested in the First World War, its fictional representation, recent novels in English and French, as well as comparative literary studies.

In The Drama of Reality Television: Lives of Youth in Liquid Modern Times, the author offers a glimpse into the lives, viewing habits, and opinions of today’s Generation Z. While reality television is quite often viewed as just a guilty pleasure, the conversations that the author had with young people show that reality television is a major pedagogical force in the lives of young viewers. This is compounded by our current liquid modern time period; a time in which everything is fluid, there are no solid bonds and people are disposable. The author shares the incredible conversations that she had with seven honest, insightful pre-teens to give us a deeper understanding of the ways in which just a ‘guilty pleasure’ is working to deeply impact the lives of young people.

READERSHIP: Those involved in shaping the lives of today’s youth – teachers, parents, researchers and even pre-service teachers.

Selfhood and Appearing
The Intertwining
James Mensch, Charles University

Selfhood and Appearing explores how, as embodied subjects, we are in the very world that we consciously internalize. Employing the insights of Merleau-Ponty and Patočka, this volume examines how the intertwining of both senses of "being-in" (physical and conscious) constitutes our reality.

READERSHIP: All those interested in how a synthesis of Merleau-Ponty’s and Patočka’s positions illuminates our understanding of the mind-body relation, issues in social and political philosophy, and the philosophy of religion.

Nietzsche and the Dionysian
A Compulsion to Ethics
Peter Durno Murray

Nietzsche and the Dionysian argues that the Dionysian affect in Nietzsche's early work can be linked to an originary interruption of self-consciousness articulated by the philosophical companion, who compels us to respond to the plurality of life they express by being 'true to the earth' and 'becoming who we are'.

READERSHIP: All those interested in Nietzsche studies and the relevance of his thought to a version of contemporary affirmative ethics which is loyal to the earth and life.

The Question of Methodological Naturalism
Edited by Jason N. Blum, Davidson College

What is Protestant Art?
Andrew T. Coates, University of North Carolina

British Quakers and Religious Language
Rhiannon Grant, Woodbrooke

The Question of Methodological Naturalism offers ten essays on the role of naturalism in religious studies, ranging from sophisticated intellectual histories and philosophical analyses to trenchant denunciations and ringing endorsements. All have profound implications for the study of religions.

What is Protestant Art? explores the history of Protestant images from the Reformation to the present. The book analyses historical images such as prints, paintings, illustrations, and maps, as evidence of changing Protestant attitudes and visual practices.

In British Quakers and Religious Language, Rhiannon Grant explores the ways in which this community discusses the Divine. She identifies characteristic patterns of language use and uncovers the philosophical and theological claims that support these patterns.

READERSHIP: Anyone interested in religion and the study of it, and particularly those with an interest in philosophical or methodological issues associated with the investigation of religion.

READERSHIP: Scholars of Protestantism interested in images and visual arts. Students or professors looking for a brief, readable overview of current research on the history of Protestant visual and material culture.

The Quest for Forbidden Lands

Nikolai Przhevalskii and his Followers on Inner Asian Tracks

Alexandre Andreyev, Mikhail Baskhanov, and Tatiana Yusupova

The Quest for Forbidden Lands: Nikolai Przhevalskii and his Followers on Inner Asian Tracks is a collection of biographical essays of outstanding Russian explorers of Inner Asia of the late nineteenth – early twentieth century, Nikolai Przhevalskii, Vsevolod Roborovskii, Mikhail Pevtsov, Petr Kozlov, Grigori Grumm-Grzhimailo and Bronislav Grombchevskii, almost all senior army officers. Their expeditions were organized by the Imperial Russian Geographical Society with some assistance from the military department with a view of exploring and mapping the vast uncharted territories of Inner Asia, being the Western periphery of the Manchu-Chinese Empire. The journeys of these pioneers were a great success and gained world renown for their many discoveries and the valuable collections they brought from the region.

READERSHIP: All interested in the history of the Russian geographical exploration of Inner Asia in the late 19th – early 20th century, ethnography of Asian peoples, the Great Game.

The contributors in this edited book offer critical analyses on many aspects of diversity as it pertains to institutional policies, practices, discourse, and beliefs. The book is broken down into 19 chapters over 7 sections that cover: policies and politics; pedagogy and higher education; STEM; religion; communities; complex organizations; and discourse and identity. Collectively, these chapters contribute to answering three main questions: 1) what, ultimately, does diversity mean; 2) what are the various mechanisms by which institutions understand and use diversity; and 3) why is it important for us to rethink diversity?

READERSHIP: All interested in critical issues of diversity, inclusion, and multiculturalism, and anyone concerned with racism, sexism, and other social inequalities, in general.

Drums of War, Drums of Development
The Formation of a Pacific Ruling Class and Industrial Transformation in East and Southeast Asia, 1945-1980
Jim Glassman, University of British Columbia

In Drums of War, Drums of Development, Glassman offers an interpretation of industrialization in East and Southeast Asia that foregrounds Pacific ruling class geopolitical economic manoeuvring during the Vietnam War, challenging interpretations that ignore the effects of military violence.

READERSHIP: Scholars and others interested in East Asian development, US foreign policy in the region, the Vietnam War, critical state theory, and processes of industrialization and social struggle in developing countries.

Socialism and Commodity Production
Essay in Marx Revival
Paresh Chattopadhyay, University of Quebec, Montreal

Socialism and Commodity Production develops a detailed critique of orthodox theories of socialism on the basis of a comprehensive study of Marx’s own writings on the nature of non-capitalist society.

READERSHIP: All interested in Marx’s works - universities, institutes of higher studies, graduate students.
Making use of the theoretical tools of Marxist critical sociology, Ruy Braga proposes an innovative reading of the social history of Brazil – from Fordist populism to the Lulista hegemony – using the ‘politics of the Precariat’ as an analytical vector.

Since 2010 Greece entered a period of austerity, protest and political crisis. The contributions in this volume deal with questions regarding capitalist crisis, debt, European integration, political crisis, new forms of protest, the rise of neo-fascist parties and left-wing strategy today.

In Machiavelli on Freedom and Civil Conflict, Marie Gaille discusses Machiavelli’s conception of civil conflict, its historical and medical language, and its uses in contemporary conceptions of democracy.
The Yearbook of International Religious Demography presents an annual snapshot of the state of religious statistics around the world. Every year large amounts of data are collected through censuses, surveys, polls, religious communities, scholars, and a host of other sources. These data are collated and analyzed by research centers and scholars around the world. Large amounts of data appear in analyzed form in the World Religion Database (Brill), aiming at a researcher’s audience. The Yearbook presents data in sets of tables and scholarly articles spanning social science, demography, history, and geography. Each issue offers findings, sources, methods, and implications surrounding international religious demography. Each year an assessment is made of new data made available since the previous issue of the yearbook.

The 2018 volume features a wide range of subjects, including approaches to measuring religious violence, religious changes in the Indian Subcontinent, religious demography in Lebanon, Baptism and Godparenthood in Catholic Europe, the relevance of social media data for religious demographic research, and the methodological and practical challenges of measuring religiosity in Turkey.

READERSHIP: The Yearbook is a reference book primarily aimed at scholars, government officials, journalists, and others who are interested in the numbers and analysis of religious adherents around the world.
Taking on Practical Theology
The Idolization of Context and the Hope of Community
Courtney T. Goto, Boston University School of Theology

In Taking on Practical Theology, Courtney T. Goto explores the regnant paradigm that shapes knowledge production and that preserves power, privilege, and historic communal injury even as scholars intend to enlighten and transform communities.
