Yearbook on the African Union
Volume 1 (2020)
Edited by Ulf Eng, Leipzig University

This is the first edition of the Yearbook on the African Union (YBAU). The YBAU is first and foremost an academic project that will provide an in-depth evaluation and analysis of the institution, its processes, and its engagements. Despite the increased agency in recent years of the African Union in general, and the AU Commission in particular, little is known – outside expert policy or niche academic circles – about the Union’s activities. This is the gap the YBAU wants to systematically bridge. It seeks to be a reference point for in-depth research, evidence-based policy-making and decision-making.

READERSHIP: The book appeals to post-graduate students, scholars and researchers in policy-oriented research circles, so-called practitioners and experts, journalists as well as international organisations’ and non-governmental organisations’ staff, diplomats and policymakers.

The Ground Zero of the Arts: Rules, Processes, Forms

Davide Dal Sasso, Università di Torino

This book proposes to investigate the arts from the inside, namely to consider, first and foremost, what artists do to create their works in order to proceed fruitfully in the direction of their evaluation and explanation. To this end, it develops a philosophical inquiry that examines the ground zero of the arts, their common foundations, namely the rules for artistic creation, the processes that involve artists in their activities, the forms that they can or cannot achieve. This proposal and its outline for a rule-based ontology of the arts addresses four themes: the relationship between human nature and artistic practices, the features of art-making, the conception of artworks as structures, and the social nature of the arts.
Ite missa est—Ritual Interactions around Mass in Chinese Society (1583–1720)
Yang Hongfan

Missions Étrangères de Paris (MEP) and China from the Seventeenth Century to the Present
Edited by Ji Li

Michele Ruggieri’s Tianzhu shilu (The True Record of the Lord of Heaven, 1584)
Edited and Translated by Daniel Canaris

The first book dedicated to the propagation of the Mass in late Imperial China unfolds dynamic interactions between this essential Catholic ritual and various cultural expressions in Chinese society, including traditional religion, architecture, art, literature, government, and theology.

READERSHIP: Those interested in East Asian studies, Religious studies, Church History, and Catholic rituals.

Missions Étrangères de Paris (MEP) and China offers readers an overview of the French MEP’s activities in China and provides insights into the significant and complex cross-cultural encounter of the Catholic Church and Chinese society.

READERSHIP: Will appeal to those interested in religion, church history, missionary studies, and Christianity in China.

This pioneering work in Sino-Western exchange evinced sophisticated strategies to accommodate Christianity to the Chinese context. Featuring a critical edition of the Chinese and Latin texts, which are both translated into English for the first time. An introduction, biography, and rich annotations are provided to situate this text in its cultural and intellectual context.

READERSHIP: Early modern historians, Renaissance specialists, Sinologists, missionaries, historians of the Jesuit China mission.

An Atlas of the Tibetan Plateau
Michael Farmer

Between Command and Market
Economic Thought and Practice in Early China
Edited by Elisa Levi Sabattini, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem, and Christian Schwermann, Ruhr University Bochum

His Stubbornship: Prime Minister Wang Anshi (1021–1086), Reformer and Poet
Jonathan Pease, Portland State University

The Atlas shows for the first time the contemporary geography of the entire Tibetan Plateau, an area where major powers (China, India and Pakistan) meet in the highest landscape on earth, originally occupied by the unique, ancient Buddhist civilisation of Tibet.

A deeply researched and thought-provoking set of essays on a sorely-neglected topic in Chinese economic, intellectual, and political history.

China's most controversial prime minister, path-breaking reformer, and an iconic Song-dynasty poet, Wang Anshi (1021—1086) is fully chronicled in English for the first time in almost a century, with a new emphasis on his luminous late verse.

Chinese Perspectives on Global Governance and China
Edited by Yu Keping, Peking University
Translated by Frances Chan

The acceleration of globalization and the rise of China are among the most important events in the 21st century. Globalization is a double-edged sword for human society. There is a strong belief among the international community that global governance is the most effective solution to most of our global problems.

The Ancestors’ Instructions Must Not Change
Political Discourse and Practice in the Song Period
Deng Xiaonan, Peking University
Translated by Wee Kek Koon

Judges 19-21 and the “Othering” of Benjamin
A Golah Polemic against the Autochthonous Inhabitants of the Land?
William Krisel, Institut Catholique de Paris and Katholieke Universiteit Leuven

This book takes a fresh look at the brutal story of the war between the sons of Israel and the sons of Benjamin in Judges 19-21. Relying on archaeological and survey data largely overlooked by biblical scholars, Krisel engages critically with the predominant scholarly view that Judges 19-21 uses “irony” to cast the explicit heroes in the narrative, the sons of Israel, as the implicit villains.

The Wisdom of the Aramaic Book of Ahiqar
Unravelling a Discourse of Uncertainty and Distress
Seth A. Bledsoe, Radboud University Nijmegen

The Wisdom of the Aramaic Book of Ahiqar offers a fresh reading of an ancient text that was an immensely popular work in antiquity. Despite the clear similarities with Proverbs and other sapiential traditions, Ahiqar challenges the more optimistic foundations of wisdom discourse, especially in couching its tension-filled instructions within a narrative of unjust suffering.

READERSHIP: Biblical scholars, especially those interested in wisdom and ancient fiction, Aramaic literature, and early Second Temple Judaism, as well as historians interested in Late Period/Achaemenid-era Egypt.

Textual Criticism and the Ontology of Literature in Early Judaism
An Analysis of the Serekh ha-Yaḥad
James Nati, Santa Clara University Jesuit School of Theology

How did early Jewish scribes understand their own textual traditions? Using the Serekh ha-Yaḥad from Qumran as a test case, this volume argues that even in Antiquity, texts were regarded as fluid, rather than as single unified compositions.

READERSHIP: Specialists, libraries, and post-graduate students interested in Hebrew Bible, Early Judaism, Qumran Studies, or Textual Criticism.

L’imaginaire du démoniaque dans la Septante
Une analyse comparée de la notion de “démon” dans la Septante et dans la Bible Hébraïque
Anna Angelini, Université de Zurich

This book offers a thorough analysis of demons in the Hebrew Bible and Septuagint in the wider context of the ancient Near East and the Greek world. Taking a fresh and innovative angle of enquiry, Anna Angelini investigates continuities and changes in the representation of divine powers in Hellenistic Judaism, thereby revealing the role of the Greek translation of the Bible in shaping ancient demonology, angelology, and pneumatology.

Studies on Eurytemora
Proceedings of the Eurytemora Conference, St. Petersburg, 2019
Edited by Natalia Sukhikh, Sami Souissi, Gesche Winkler and Victor R. Alekseev

This monograph is a summary of the conference on Eurytemora, gathering renowned researchers from all over the world to discuss new advances in Phylogeny, Biogeography, Taxonomy, and Ecology of this important group of estuarine crustaceans, held the 13-17 May 2019 in St. Petersburg, Russia. The present volume includes 17 selected papers, in which you will discover new aspects of the modern theory on the history and recent geographical distribution (biogeography) of an important group of estuarine crustaceans, revealing coincidences with a modern model of continental drift. The researchers suggest a new hypothesis on time and place of origin of continental calanoid copepods.

Numbers and Numeracy in the Greek Polis
Edited by Robert Sing, independent researcher, Tazuko, Angela van Berkel, Leiden University, Robin Osborne, University of Cambridge

The fifth volume of the Studies in Ancient Greek Narrative deals with speech: it discusses the types, modes and functions of speech in narrative, the boundaries between speech and narrative context, and the absence of speech (silence).

This book offers the first coherent discussion of confiscations and fines in the Roman Republic. By combining literary, epigraphic and archaeological sources it reassesses the role of financial penalties in the Roman economy and society, moving beyond the analysis of their legalistic technicalities.

This is a wide-ranging study of numbers as a social and cultural phenomenon in ancient Greece, revealing both the instrumentality of numbers to polis life and the complex cultural meanings inherent in their use.

READERSHIP: All those interested in ancient Greek literature, narrative theory, literary history, comparative literature.

READERSHIP: Scholars working in the field of ancient history, Roman law, epigraphy as well as a larger public interested in the legal and economic aspects of financial penalties and public sales in antiquity.

READERSHIP: Undergraduate and postgraduate students, academics, and researchers. Subject areas: Classics, Ancient History (specifically Greek), Numeracy, Ancient Mathematics, Ancient Philosophy, Historiography, Rhetoric, Epigraphy.

A Cosmological Reformulation of Anselm’s Proof That God Exists

Richard Campbell, The Australian National University

In this book, Richard Campbell reformulates Anselm’s proof to show that factual evidence confirmed by modern cosmology validly implies that God exists. Anselm’s proof, which was never the “ontological argument” attributed to him, emerges as engaging with current philosophical issues concerning existence and scientific explanation.

READERSHIP: Anyone interested in the question of whether God exists, and in the soundness of Anselm’s proof in particular.

The Unity of the Proslogion Reason and Desire in the Monastic Theology of Anselm of Canterbury

John Bayer

In this book, John Bayer aims to evade an aporia in Anselm scholarship by interpreting the Proslogion as a monastic work harmonizing life and thought, or spirituality and philosophy, and thereby demonstrating the reality of God.

READERSHIP: This work will interest scholars of Anselm, monasticism, proofs for the existence of God, fundamental theology and anyone concerned with the integration of spirituality and philosophy.

The Crucible of Revolutionary and Napoleonic Warfare and European Transitions to Modern Economic Growth

Patrick Karl O’Brien, St. Antony’s College, University Of Oxford

Emergence of Natural History, 4
The Encyclopedia of Early Modern History offers 400 years of early modern history in one work. Experts from all over the world have joined in a presentation of the scholarship on the great era between the mid-15th to the mid-19th centuries. The perspective is European. That does not mean, however, that the view on the rest of the world is blocked. On the contrary: the multifaceted interrelatedness of European and other cultures is scrutinized extensively.

The Encyclopedia of Early Modern History addresses major historical questions:
- which ideas, inventions, and events changed people’s lives?
- in which ways did living conditions change?
- how do political, social, and economic developments interlock?
- which major cultural currents have begun to become apparent?
- how did historical interpretation of certain phenomena change?

The individual articles are connected to one another as in a web of red threads. The reader who follows the threads will keep coming upon new and unexpected contexts and links.

Pseudo-Paracelsus
* Forgery and Early Modern Alchemy, Medicine and Natural Philosophy
Edited by Didier Kahn, CNRS, and Hiro Hirai, Columbia University

With its innovative studies and its extensive catalogue of texts erroneously attributed to Paracelsus (1493/4-1541), this volume explores largely overlooked aspects of the Paracelsian movement in Renaissance and early modern medicine, science, natural philosophy, theology and religion.

Knowledge, Patents, Power
* The Making of a Patent System in the Dutch Republic
Marius Buning, University of Oslo

Knowledge, Patents, Power offers a sophisticated analysis of patenting practices in the early modern Dutch Republic and their detailed legal framework, as well as the uses of expert knowledge not only in producing inventions but in evaluating them for patent purposes.

Practising Community in Urban and Rural Eurasia (1000–1600)
Comparative and Interdisciplinary Perspectives
Edited by Fabian Kümmeler, Judit Majorossy and Eirik Hovden

This volume explores social practices of framing, building and enacting community in urban-rural relations across medieval Europe, Arabia and Asia. Its contributions compare social practices and visions of community in textual, visual and material culture in a global medieval perspective.

Readership: All who are interested in intellectual history, book history, history of alchemy and chemistry, Renaissance and early modern science, medicine, philosophy, theology and religion.

Readership: This book speaks to historians of science and technology as well as historians of law, and to all interested in the economic and political history of the Dutch Republic.

Readership: Scholars, students and anyone interested in Medieval, Global, Cultural and Comparative History, Asian and Arabian Studies, Historical Anthropology, Sociology and Urban Studies, and academic libraries in these fields.

Epistolae duorum amantium: Parodien – auf ein berühmtes Liebespaar?
Rüdiger Schnell, University of Basel

Medieval chronicles are significant sources not just for the study of history, but also for the fields of literature, linguistics and art history. These papers, with broad chronological and geographical range, represent current approaches in the study of medieval historiography.

This biography presents a remarkable vision of Spanish society at the beginning of the 13th century by exploring the life of Berenguela of Castile (c. 1179-1246), a queen who dominated public life for over forty years.

The letters which are analyzed in this study have been considered the authentic letters of the famous medieval philosopher Abelard and his beloved Heloise. A close reading comes to a surprising result: these letters are parodic, and open up the famous lovers to ridicule.

READERSHIP: Specialists, (post-graduate) students in medieval European history, literature and culture.

READERSHIP: This work will be of interest to all researchers of medieval Spain, especially in the fields political and social institutions, the monarchy and queenship, as well as in historiography, literature, and religion and the arts.

READERSHIP: Students and teachers of medieval Latin; all medievalists who are interested in love literature and in the intellectual history of the twelfth century; literary scholars who are engaged with the forms of parody.

Mapping Travel
The Origins and Conventions of Western Journey Maps
Jordana Dym, Skidmore College

Drawing on a thousand years of European travel writing and mapmaking, Dym suggests that after centuries of text-based itineraries and on-the-spot directions guiding travelers and constituting their reports, maps in the fifteenth century emerged as tools for Europeans to support and report the results of land and sea travel. With each succeeding generation, these linear journey maps have become increasingly common and complex, responding to changes in forms of transportation, such as air and motor car ‘flight’ and print technology, especially the advent of multi-color printing. This is their story.

READERSHIP: History and English literature specialists; scholars of the Renaissance; Reformation scholars; ecclesiastical historians; early modernists; post-graduate students; university and academic libraries; educated readers who enjoy Tudor history.

The Law Reports of the Special Court for Sierra Leone

Volume IV: Prosecutor v. Sesay, Kallon and Gbao (The RUF Case) (Set of 3)

Edited by Charles C. Jalloh and Simon M. Meisenberg

The Special Court for Sierra Leone was established through signature of a bilateral treaty between the United Nations and the Government of Sierra Leone in early 2002, making it the third modern ad hoc international criminal tribunal. It has tried various persons, including former Liberian President Charles Ghankay Taylor, for serious violations of international humanitarian law committed during the latter half of the Sierra Leonean armed conflict. It completed its work in December 2013. A new Residual Special Court for Sierra Leone, based in Freetown and with offices in The Hague, has been created to carry out its essential “residual” functions.

This volume, which consists of three books and a CD-ROM and is edited by two legal experts on the Sierra Leone Court, completes the set of edited Law Reports started in 2012. Together, the Law Reports fill the gap of a single and authoritative reference source of the tribunal’s jurisprudence. The law reports are intended for national and international judges, lawyers, academics, students and other researchers as well as transitional justice practitioners in courts, tribunals and truth commissions, and anyone seeking an accurate record of the trials conducted by the Special Court for Sierra Leone.

N.B.: The hardback copy of this title contains a CD-ROM with the decisions that are reproduced in the book and the trial transcripts.

Maritime Claims and Underwater Archaeology
When History Meets Politics
Mariano J. Aznar

When claiming territories, States use all kinds of legal, geographical, and historical arguments, as well as effectiveness. In recent maritime cases, States have begun using underwater archaeology and submerged heritage as a basis for their claims. This book takes a critical look at that policy.

READERSHIP: Institutes, academic libraries, specialists, graduate and post-graduate, students, practitioners of international law, archaeologists, policy-makers, historians.

Peaceful Resolution of Disputes
Edited by Lori Fisler Damrosch

The contributions in this collection of the American Classics in International Law series, Peaceful Resolution of Disputes, edited by Lori Fisler Damrosch, present the most influential American ideas about dispute settlement. From Alexander Hamilton’s 1794 defense of arbitration, through 20th-century debates over the International Court of Justice and other international courts and tribunals, to contemporary controversies over law-of-the-sea dispute settlement, American leaders and scholars have promoted perspectives on dispute resolution shaped by the American experience. An introductory essay explores American ideas about dispute resolution in relation to war, the judicial role in resolving concrete controversies under law, and problems of institutional design.

READERSHIP: International law students, practitioners and scholars; law libraries.
Philippine Materials in International Law
Raul C. Pangalangan

The most authoritative international law documents in Philippine history are brought together in one book for the first time. These are primary materials that illuminate Philippine interpretations of international law doctrine.

The Role of the Domestic Law of the Host State in Determining the Jurisdiction ratione materiae of Investment Treaty Tribunals
The Partial Revival of the Localisation Theory?
Reza Eftekhar

This book focuses on the largely unexplored role of the host state law in jurisdiction ratione materiae of investment treaty tribunals. Given domestic law’s essential role in subject-matter jurisdiction, and in light of the broader functions of host state law and host state courts, the author argues that the dormant “localisation” theory is necessary for investment treaty law.

READERSHIP: Academia, and students (post-graduate), practitioners, in particular, arbitrators, advocates, and national judges will be the potential readers of this work.

Buchmann analyses the work of UK, German, Danish and Swedish embassies in the USA and China on climate change in the late 2000s and early 2010s. She relates which coalitions and narratives embassies sought to develop to convince China and the United States that a more progressive climate policy was possible, to achieve gains supporting an agreement under the UNFCCC. This book shows that a key interpretation of climate diplomacy was selling/trade: Europe selling technology “solutions” to solve climate change.

In this narrative, Europe has already done what needs to be done and outsourcing of production to China e.g. is ignored. In the USA, embassies entered coalitions with states, faith groups and the military, arguing that a more progressive climate policy was mandated by either God or security concerns. State politicians, including Democrats, often actually didn’t implement any climate policies. Any gains were reversed through climate denial lobbying funded by corporations. Embassies did not address this.

READERSHIP: All interested in diplomacy, embassies, climate diplomacy, economic diplomacy, public diplomacy, climate policy, renewal energy policy, and the UN climate negotiations.

Studies in the Tanhuma-Yelammedenu Literature
Edited by Arnon Atzmon, Bar-Ilan University, and Ronit Nikolsky, University of Groningen

Tanhuma-Yelammedenu Literature enables a rare and unique look into the Jewish society of late antiquity and the early Byzantine period, especially the interaction between the beit-midrash and the synagogue cultures. This little-studied corpus is the focus of the present volume, in which various authors study historical, philological, cultural or linguistic aspects of this literature. The result is a body of work dedicated to this important corpus, and is a first step into giving it its proper place in Jewish Studies.

READERSHIP: All libraries in Israeli universities (The Hebrew University, Tel-Aviv University, Bar-Ilan University, Ben-Gurion University, Haifa University, Ariel), Jewish-Studies specialists, post-graduates of Jewish Studies.

The Linguistic Bibliography / Bibliographie Linguistique is the annual bibliography of theoretical linguistics published by the Permanent International Committee of Linguists under the auspices of the International Council of Philosophy and Humanistic Studies of UNESCO. With a tradition of over seventy years, the Linguistic Bibliography is by far the most comprehensive bibliographic reference work in the field. It covers all disciplines of theoretical linguistics, both general and language specific, from all geographical areas, including endangered and extinct languages with particular attention to lesser-known Indo-European and non-Indo-European languages. Up-to-date information is guaranteed by the collaboration of some forty-five contributing specialists from all over the world. With over 20,000 titles arranged according to a subject and language classification, the Linguistic Bibliography is a standard reference work for every scholar of language and linguistics. This volume has been brought up-to-date and contains extensive indexes of names, languages, and subjects.

Readership: All interested in Linguistics.
An Introductory Sanskrit Reader
Improving Reading Fluency
Antonia M. Ruppel, University of Oxford and Ludwig-Maximilians, Universität München

Rewriting Dialectal Arabic Prehistory
The Ancient Egyptian Lexical Evidence
Alexander Borg, Ben-Gurion University of the Negev

This study is the first attempt to reconstruct the prehistory of Arabic by examining lexical evidence of its symbiotic relationship with Ancient Egyptian already apparent from the Pyramid Texts (c. 2613–2181 BC). It documents the contention that Ancient Egypt was a strategic site in its early prehistory.

READERSHIP: The immediate readership of this work comprises comparatists in the domain of Afroasiatic, Ancient Egyptian, and Arabic but is also of interest to specialists and university students of Semitic.

The Reflexes of Syllabic Liquids in Ancient Greek
Linguistic Prehistory of the Greek Dialects and Homeric Kunstsprache
Lucien van Beek, Leiden University

Reflexes of syllabic liquids play an important yet controversial role in Greek dialect classification and the analysis of Homeric formulas. This book tackles the entire evidence afresh and elaborates a ground-breaking new scenario of language change in the epic tradition.

READERSHIP: The book is a must-have for academic libraries and specialists/researchers in Indo-European Linguistics, Homeric studies (and hence Classics more generally), Mycenology, and Ancient Greek dialectology.

When fiction and reality meet: Probably no contemporary novel has shaped reality as powerfully Houellebeck’s Submission. No previous analysis of Submission is as deep and encompassing as this volume written by experts on politics and literature.

Using a multidisciplinary and transnational approach, this volume studies the representations and symbolisations of animals in (pre)modern European literary texts and the visual arts.

Innovative and interdisciplinary in their scope, thirteen essays deal with artistic and historical transformations that affected a number of mythical characters – Greek, Biblical and African, whose bodies are made visible thanks to the subversion of the patriarchal imaginary.

Tragic Agency in Classical Drama from Aeschylus to Voltaire
Paul Hammond,
University of Leeds

Are we free agents? This perennial question is addressed by tragedy when it dramatizes the struggle of individuals with supernatural forces, or maps the inner conflict of a mind divided against itself. The book discusses plays from classical Greece to neo-classical France.

READERSHIP: Academics and students in Greek, Latin, and French literature; specialists in tragedy.

Samuel Beckett dans les marges du surréalisme
Ou l’écriture du rocking chair
Bernard-Olivier Posse,
Université de Fribourg

READERSHIP: All those interested in Samuel Beckett and the esthetics and poetics of his work in the 1930 and its relationship with his later work, and in questions of auctorial positioning.

Histoire des deux Indes
Raynal et ses doubles
Textes réunis et présentés par Pierino Gallo, Université de Messina

The polygraphic status and the heterogeneous structure of the Histoire des deux Indes invite us to re-examine the methods and strategies employed by the editors, while favouring a double reading: that dictated by historiography and that suggested by the intrusions of philosophical discourse.

READERSHIP: Specialists of 18th-century French Literature, and all those interested in colonial history and history of slavery.
Amitav Ghosh’s Culture Chromosome

Anthropology, Epistemology, Ethics, Space

Amsterdamer Beiträge zur neueren Germanistik, 94

Ottmar Ette, University of Potsdam
Translated from the German by Mark W. Person

READERSHIP: All those readers, literary enthusiasts, pupils, students, scholars and experts who are interested in a dynamic and contemporary concept of literature and its theoretical foundations.

READERSHIP: Universities, Libraries, researchers in literary and cultural studies, and students with interests in migrant writing and intercultural literature.

READERSHIP: This volume is relevant to anyone interested in spatial practices and their relevance for the construction of collective identities and the promotion of individual and collective wellbeing.

In this volume, Ottmar Ette unfolds a theory and practice of the Literatures of the World from a fractal and multi-perspective point of view.

The increase in German-language literature by authors originating from Eastern Europe that can be observed in the last years raises questions about the specific contribution of these authors to German-language literature, but also about the effectiveness of the construct ‘Eastern Europe’ in the perception of literature.

Negotiating Institutional Heritage and Wellbeing
Edited by Elisabeth Punzi, Gothenburg University, Christoph Singer, University of Innsbruck, and Cornelia Wächter, Paderborn University

Negotiating Institutional Heritage and Wellbeing considers ways in which institutional spaces in their materiality as well as in their cultural inscriptions impact on the wellbeing of the subjects inhabiting them and explores how heritage comes to bear on these interrelations.

READERSHIP: This volume is relevant to anyone interested in spatial practices and their relevance for the construction of collective identities and the promotion of individual and collective wellbeing.
Before Humanity
Posthumanism and Ancestrality
Stefan Herbrechter, Coventry University and Heidelberg University

The current crisis in thinking the “human” raises questions not only about who or what may come after the human, but also about what happened before. What dark secrets lie in our ancestral past that may be stopping us from becoming human “otherwise”?

READERSHIP: Before Humanity will appeal to students and academics in the fields of literature, media, film and cultural studies and those who have a general interest in posthumanism, postanthropocentrism and its prehistories.

Rejection of Victimhood in Literature
by Abdulrazak Gurnah, Viet Thanh Nguyen, and Luis Alberto Urrea
Sean James Bosman, Rhodes University, South Africa

This book examines how selected works of fiction advocate for just memories and promote identities that accept ethical agency and that exercise power and control over their own lives and destinies, no matter how limited such control may be.

READERSHIP: The market is scholarly, and is located around literary, transnational, postcolonial, and migration studies. The book should interest undergraduates and advanced scholars of comparative literature, and literary transnationalism.

The Eight Books: A Complete English Translation is the first complete translation of the collected poems of Sohrab Sepehri (1928-1980), a major Iranian modernist poet and painter and yet under-translated into English. The introduction takes up Sepehri's famously difficult if languidly beautiful style to explain it as a series of appropriations of global modernisms in poetry and painting. It offers close readings of how Sepehri's modernism follows and breaks with the jagged rhythms of Nima Yushij (d.1960), Iran's inaugural modernist poet. In keeping with this modernist framing, the translations replicate Sepehri's rhymes where possible, his fluctuations between formal and colloquial registers, his syntactic distortions, and his embeddings of governmental and other jargons.

READERSHIP: All interested in Persian literature, especially modern poetry, and anyone concerned with global modernisms, literary theory and literary translation.

Les périples de Kalila et Dimna: Itinéraires de fables dans les arts et la littérature du monde islamique

The Journeys of Kalila and Dimna: Itineraries of Fables in the Arts and Literature of the Islamic World

Eloïse Brac de la Perrière, Sorbonne Université, Aïda El Khiari, Sorbonne Université, and Annie Vernay-Nouri, Bibliothèque nationale de France

Kalīla wa-Dimna is one of the best-known texts of medieval Arabic literature and counts among the most illustrated works in the Islamic world. The extent of the corpus and its journey through the ages make it the ideal material for a reflection on the evolution of iconography in Islamic art. The studies gathered in this volume edited by Eloïse Brac de la Perrière, Aïda El Khiari and Annie Vernay-Nouri, showcase a wide diversity of approaches that convincingly crosses textual investigation, codicology, iconographical study, and physico-chemical analyses. They explore new tracks, either by devoting themselves to the examination of unknown or rarely studied manuscripts, or by proposing innovative readings of this extremely rich work that is Kalīla wa-Dimn.

READERSHIP: All interested in Islamic art, arts of the book, Arab painting, literary manuscripts and Arabic literature.

Words Like Daggers
The Political Poetry of the Negev Bedouin
Kobi Peled, Ben-Gurion University of the Negev

The book explores the political poetry recited by the Negev Bedouin from the late Ottoman period to the late twentieth century. By closely reading fifty poems Peled sheds light on the poets' sentiments and worldviews. To get to the bottom of the issues that inspired their poetry, he weaves an interpretive web informed by the study of language, culture and history.

The poems reveal that the poets were perfectly aware of the workings of the power systems that took control of their lives and lifestyle. Their poetry indicates that they did not remain silent but practiced their art in the face of their hardships, observing the collapse of their world with a mixture of despair and inspiration, bitterness and wit.

READERSHIP: All interested in Bedouin poetry, culture and history. Scholars of the Middle East and North Africa; cultural studies; nomadic societies; and Arab literature. Additionally, poetry aficionados particularly in Arab countries.

Evil Women: Representations within Literature, Culture and Film

Robyn Muir, University of Nottingham, Beatrice Frasl, University of Vienna, Christie Lauder, Louisiana State University, and Elizabeth Schreiber-Byers, University of North Carolina

Often side-lined or simplified, evil women challenge societal norms of womanhood. This volume explores how evil women have been constructed, punished, and erased within literature, culture, and film and how this contributes to our understanding of womanhood.

READERSHIP: For anyone interested in the politics of gender representation in culture, history of literature and gender and cultural phenomena.

Citizenship as a Challenge Dimensions of an Evolving Process

Tamara Nair, S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies, and Maria Inês Amaro, University Institute of Lisbon

The book discusses citizenship in the contemporary world; as a concept, as an ideal, as a policy and as a goal to be achieved from the perspective of different academic disciplines.

READERSHIP: Researchers interested in citizenship studies from a multidisciplinary background. Any student, academic, practitioner and lay person interested on reflection about citizenship in present times through its different dimensions and approaches.

In Fashion: Culture, Commerce, Craft, and Identity

Jacque Lynn Foltyn, National University, La Jolla, California, and Laura Petican, Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi

For the international cast of contributors to this volume being “in fashion” is about self-presentation; defining how fashion is presented in the visual, written, and performing arts; and about design, craft manufacturing, packaging, marketing, and archives.

READERSHIP: Those interested in an interdisciplinary approach to fashion, i.e., the social, cultural, cross-cultural, historical, art, archival, and business aspects of fashion, as well as those concerned about sustainability and craft.

Faith and Philosophy
A Historical Orientation
Jerry H. Gill

A tracing of the dynamics of the relationship between Faith and Philosophy throughout Western intellectual history, following the dynamics of Tertullian’s ancient question: “What has Athens to do with Jerusalem?” In the conclusion the author presents his own approach to this question.

READERSHIP: Students of all ages interested in the relationship between philosophy and religion.

The Original Age of Anxiety
Essays on Kierkegaard and His Contemporaries
Lasse Horne Kjældgaard,
University of Southern Denmark

The book proposes a radically revised understanding of the epoch of the Danish Golden Age by investigating the historical and literary contexts of Soren Kierkegaard’s pioneering thoughts on anxiety.

READERSHIP: The Original Age of Anxiety is first and foremost a scholarly book that addresses scholars as well as graduate and undergraduate students in the fields of Western Philosophy, Existentialism, History of Ideas, Scandinavian studies.

Creating a Shared Morality
The Feasibility of Ethical Constructivism
Heather Salazar,
Western New England University

In Creating a Shared Morality, Heather Salazar develops a plausible account of ethical constructivism that rivals realism and subjectivism. Enlightenism resolves difficulties within constructivism, builds bridges between the two traditional views of metaethics and employs concepts from Eastern (Buddhist) philosophy.

READERSHIP: All interested in metaethics, neo-Kantian deontological ethics, constructivism, subjectivism, Eastern philosophy, comparative ethics, and Christine Korsgaard. Particularly suited for professional philosophers and graduate students.

Jewish Socratic Questions in an Age without Plato
Permitting and Forbidding Open Inquiry in 12-15th Century Europe and North Africa

Yehuda Halper, Bar Ilan University (Israel)

Halper’s study traces how the open-questioning of the divine arises in the works of Maimonides, Jacob Anatoli, Gersonides, and Abraham Bibago.

READERSHIP: All interested in history and reception of Socrates, Plato, Aristotle and Averroes as well as those interested in open inquiry among medieval Jewish thinkers, including Maimonides and Judah Halevi.

Kant und Hegel über Freiheit
Mit Diskussionsbeiträgen von Martin Bunte, Jakub Kloc-Konkołowicz, Hernán Pringe, Jacco Verburt, Kenneth R. Westphal und Manfred Wetzel

Werner Flach, Universität Würzburg, and Christian Krijnen, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam

Flach presents Kant’s conception of freedom as well as its potential for understanding what it means to be human. Krijnen presents Hegel’s conception of freedom and shows that Kant’s conception underestimates an essential feature of freedom. The contributions of other authors assess the results.

READERSHIP: All interested in the philosophy of Kant, Hegel, German idealism, neo-Kantianism, and post-war transcendental philosophy. Anyone concerned with the concept of freedom in German philosophy and its relevance for philosophical thought.

Logik und Moderne
Hegels Wissenschaft der Logik als Paradigma moderner Subjektivität

Herausgegeben von Folko Zander, Universität Jena, und Klaus Vieweg, Universität Jena
Edited by Folko Zander, University of Jena, and Klaus Vieweg, University of Jena

Hegel’s Science of Logic represents a revolution in philosophical thought, advancing a modern and still relevant metaphysics.

READERSHIP: The work will interest researchers in philosophy, teachers, humanities scholars, theorists of modernity, and graduate students. Although it is a difficult book for beginners, it could interest also undergraduate students.

Das Maß des Menschen
Platons Antwort an Protagoras im ‘Theaitetos’ und im ‘Protagoras’
Edwin J. de Sterke, University of Applied Sciences and Arts FHNW, Switzerland

Protagoras claims to be able to educate the young. Why not? If «Man is Measure of Everything», anybody can make everybody ‘better’... To Plato, this doesn’t add up. What’s lacking? What is the measure of Man, if Man be measure?

READERSHIP: Students and specialists in Ancient Philosophy and the history of pedagogical and political thought. Due to the fundamental questions it poses, the book is also relevant for modern discussions in these fields.

The Lvov-Warsaw School and Contemporary Philosophy of Language
Edited by Piotr Stalmaszczyk, University of Lodz, and Mieszko Tałasiewicz, University of Warsaw

This book highlights the legacy of the Lvov-Warsaw School in broadly understood contemporary philosophy of language. Fundamental methodological issues, important topics in syntax, semantics and pragmatics (such as modern Categorial Grammar, theories of truth, game-theoretical semantics, and argumentation theory) are tracked down to their origins in the Lvov-Warsaw School, and – the other way round – modern renderings of the ideas expressed by Kazimierz Ajdukiewicz, Tadeusz Kotarbiński, Stanisław Leśniewski, Jan Łukasiewicz, Alfred Tarski, Kazimierz Twardowski, and other members of the School are presented. Among contributors there are philosophers, logicians, formal linguists and other specialists from France, Italy, Poland, and Spain.

READERSHIP: Specialists in subject matter (philosophical methodology, theories of truth, Categorial Grammar, philosophy/linguistics interface, argumentation theory, etc.), historians of the Lvov-Warsaw School, specialists in analytic philosophy, and post-graduate students interested in historical inspirations behind current debates in philosophy in general, and especially philosophy of language.

Religious Freedom: Social-Scientific Approaches
Edited by Breskaya Olga, University of Padova, Roger Finke, Pennsylvania State University, and Giordan Giuseppe, University of Padova

“Religious Freedom: Social-Scientific Approaches” offers original research on religious freedom from around the globe. The volume addresses the issues related to defining and understanding the concept of religious freedom with interdisciplinary methods and by incorporating sociological thinking as a constituent part of this analysis.

READERSHIP: All interested in the social-scientific study of religious freedom, and anyone concerned with contemporary theories and measures of religious freedom, including academics, graduate and post-graduate students.

Religious Identities in Antiquity and the Early Middle Ages
Walking Together & Parting Ways
Edited by Ilkka Lindstedt, University of Helsinki, Nina Nikki, University of Helsinki, and Riikka Tuori, University of Helsinki

This collection of articles analyzes the formation of antique and early medieval religious identities and ideas in rabbinic Judaism, early Christianity, Islam, and Greco-Roman culture. The authors question the artificial disciplinary and conceptual boundaries between these traditions.

READERSHIP: Specialists and post-graduate students interested in antiquity, early Christianity, early Islam, rabbinic Judaism, Greco-Roman literature, and the historical development of religious identities; academic libraries.

Religious Polemics and Encounters in Late Antiquity
Boundaries, Conversions, and Persuasion
Edited by Timo Nisula, Åbo Akademi University, Anni Maria Laato, Åbo Akademi University, and Pablo Irizar, McGill University

This volume explores the intricate identarian formation and negotiations of early encounters of the Abrahamic religions. Its aim is to understand the ever-pressing challenges arising from polemical inter-religious encounters by analyzing the dynamics of apologetic debate, the negotiation and formation of boundaries of belonging.

READERSHIP: All interested in the contents and modes of religious polemics and rhetorical persuasion in Late Antiquity both in interreligious contacts, between Abrahamic traditions and intra-Christian relations.
Secularisation in Australian Education since 1910
Clarissa Carden, Griffith University

One of the most central figures in monotheistic traditions is King David. The volume takes a new, critical look at the process of biblical creation and exegetical transformation of this character in the intertwined words of Judaism, Christianity and Islam.

READERSHIP: The main beneficiaries of the volume will be scholars and students of Jewish, Christian and Islamic studies, especially those interested in Bible and Qurʾān exegesis.

The Character of David in Judaism, Christianity and Islam
Warrior, Poet, Prophet and King
Edited by Marzena Zawanowska, University of Warsaw & Jewish Historical Institute, and Mateusz Wilk, University of Warsaw

Combining an overview of the interdisciplinary literature with original case studies, this volume examines Australian education through the lens of secularisation, from 1910 to the present, questioning the nature of “secular settlements” and the role of Christianity in Australian schools.

READERSHIP: Students and researchers in the study of secularisation, religious studies, education studies, sociological, and cultural studies.

Translation and Style in the Old Greek Psalter

What Pleases Israel’s God

Jennifer Brown Jones, Liberty University

While some describe the Greek Psalter as a “slavish” or “interlinear” translation with “dreadfully poor poetry,” how would its original audience have described it? Positioning the translation within the developing corpus of Jewish-Greek literature, Jones analyzes the Psalter’s style based on the textual models and literary strategies available to its translator. She demonstrates that the translator both respects the integrity of his source and displays a sensitivity to his translation’s performative aspects. By adopting recognizable and acceptable Jewish-Greek literary conventions, the translator ultimately creates a text that can function independently and be read aloud or performed in the Jewish-Greek community.

READERSHIP: Institutes focused on Septuagintal studies. Marxism Today, Cultural Politics and the Remaking of the Left Press, 1979-90
H.F. Pimlott, Wilfrid Laurier University

Aesthetic Thinking
Essays on Intention, Painting, Action, and Ideology
Fred Orton, University of Leeds

Departing from Althusserian premises, this book rigorously develops a critical theoretic method focused on the analysis of particular, concrete situations of unfreedom and defends it as the correct one for effective socio-political analysis and transformation.

Wars of Position analyses the UK left’s most public periodical under Thatcherism: Marxism Today. It connects the periodical’s political-ideological and cultural transformation via its relationship with the Communist Party, production, distribution, publicity, media relations, cultural coverage, design and writing style.

Intention Painting Action Ideology anthologises some of Fred Orton’s important contributions to rethinking the social history of art and art practice. More than that, it offers a vivid demonstration of how theory can generate new interpretations and unsettle old ones.

READERSHIP: Primarily, the book is aimed at Althusser scholars, political philosophers, and theoretically inclined activists. However, the book includes material relevant to philosophers of race, political scientists, and moral psychologists.

READERSHIP: Faculty and (postgraduate) students in media, communication & cultural studies, 20th Century UK politics and history, writing & publishing studies, (periodical) journalism. As well as alternative/radical media practitioners and students.

READERSHIP: Undergraduate and post-graduate students of fine art and art history in universities and art colleges and their teachers. Anyone with an interest in art, art history, Marxism and social history.

On the Psychology of Society; New World, and Contributions to Studies in the Realist Worldview
Alexander Bogdanov
Edited and Translated by David G. Rowley, University of Wisconsin-Platteville

In these polemical writings, Bogdanov refutes Russian Marxist revisionists, including Nikolai Berdiaev and Sergei Bulgakov, and offers his own defence of historical materialism and the labour theory of value. In so doing, he further elaborates and extends his empirionomist worldview.

Bodies and Artefacts: Historical Materialism as Corporeal Semiotics
Joseph Fracchia, University of Oregon

In an offhand, never systematically elaborated comment Karl Marx deemed ‘human corporeal organisation’ the ‘first fact for the study of human history’. This book explores the implications of Marx’s radically corporeal insight for historical-materialist analysis of socio-economic and cultural forms.

READERSHIP: All interested in historical theory; philosophy of history; the intersection of paleo-anthropology and history; historical materialist approaches to study of socio-economic and cultural forms; history of capitalism and capitalist culture.

Leo Kofler’s Philosophy of Praxis: Western Marxism and Socialist Humanism
With Six Essays by Leo Kofler Published in English for the First Time
Christoph Jünke
Translated by Nathaniel Thomas

Towards a Productive Aesthetics
Contemporary and Historical Interventions in Blake and Brecht
Keith O’Regan, York University

The eighteen articles in this book present fresh looks at the meaning of politics, praxis, labour, dialectics and modernity in the work of Czech philosopher Karel Kosik, best known for his book Dialectics of the Concrete.

Despite being a major theorist of post-war Marxism in the German-speaking world, Leo Kofler remains largely unknown outside of it. This volume introduces his work and life and presents six of Kofler’s essays in English for the first time.

This work is a comparative analysis of contemporary and historical interventions in the poetic and dramatic work of William Blake and Bertolt Brecht. Both authors explore how relations of domination shape lived experience under capitalism and mobilise literature as a form of resistance.

READERSHIP: This volume is aimed at specialists in the intellectual history and politics of Central and Eastern Europe, as well as all scholars and students interested in critical philosophy.

READERSHIP: The volume will be of interest to students and scholars of Marxist and critical theory, European left-wing and workers’ movements, modern European history, and German and Jewish Studies.

READERSHIP: The audience is broadly academic, and of interest to readers of art and aesthetics, cultural and literary studies, philosophy and to a broader readership interested in political/radical aesthetics.

Freud and the Limits of Bourgeois Individualism
León Rozitchner
Translated, with an introduction, by Bruno Bosteels

Offering an in-depth interpretation of Sigmund Freud's so-called “collective” or “social” works, León Rozitchner shows how the Left should consider the ways in which capitalism inscribes its power in the subject as the site for the verification of history.

READERSHIP: The book is directed to anyone interested in the dialogues and crossroads between marxism and psychoanalysis, particularly on alternative interpretations of Sigmund Freud's 'collective' or 'social' works.

Beyond Nature
Animal Liberation, Marxism, and Critical Theory
Marco Maurizi, Lucio Lombardo
Radice Institute, Rome

READERSHIP: The Workers’ Opposition in the Russian Communist Party: Documents, 1919-30 comprises translations of articles, speeches, theses, letters, and other documents pertaining to the activity of the Workers’ Opposition group and its members during its existence and until 1930.

In Beyond Nature Maurizi tackles the animal question from an unprecedented perspective: strongly criticizing the abstract moralism that has always characterized animal rights activism, the author proposes a revolutionary, historical-materialistic analysis of the relationship between humans and non-humans.

Old Religion, New Spirituality
Implications of Secularisation and Individualisation in Estonia
Edited by Riho Altnurme, University of Tartu

Maritime Spaces and Society
Edited by Agnieszka Kołodziej-Durnaś, Frank Sowa and Marie C. Grasmeier

A variety of contemporary social phenomena that are no longer limited to national borders but that are of a global order are assumed to be related with characteristics of the nation states. This is tested empirically using the qualitative tools of mainstream sociology.

Old Religion, New Spirituality: Implications of Secularisation and Individualisation in Estonia, edited by Riho Altnurme, discusses the link between the secularity of Estonia and the image of individualised religiosity in this country today.

Social interaction with maritime environments in a symbolic, cultural or economic manner, has led to the emergence of spatial structures – the social construction of maritime spaces.

READERSHIP: Academic libraries, institutes, public libraries, researchers, students.

READERSHIP: Post-graduate students, researchers, university lecturers, and everybody interested in the interaction of secularisation and religiosity in contemporary society.

READERSHIP: Social scientists and researchers, academic institutes and libraries, institutions and NGOs dealing with sustainable development, sociology and other social disciplines as social and cultural anthropology.

Studies in Global Slavery, 11

Slavery in the Black Sea Region, c.900–1900 is a collection of studies that investigate various types of unfreedom in the wider Black Sea area in the medieval and early modern periods.

Migrant Organising offers an account of how trade union and migrant workers today respond to the transformation of work, the rise of global chains and the intensification of international migrations, by reinventing community-based unionism and building solidarity networks.

Decentering Comparative Analysis in a Globalizing World aims to renew the comparative method by questioning the inherited comparative categories. By varying the analytical perspectives in different empirical and social sciences fields, this volume opens new spaces for the comparative method.
Slavery and Bonded Labor in Asia, 1250–1900
Edited by Richard B. Allen, Framingham State University

Forms of Collective Engagement in Youth Transitions
A Global Perspective
Edited by Valentina Cuzzocrea, Università di Cagliari, Ben Gook, University of Melbourne, and Bjørn Schiermer, University of Oslo

Slavery and Bonded Labor in Asia, 1250–1900 is the first collection of studies to examine slavery and related forms of labor across the whole of Asia in well-developed local, regional, pan-regional, and comparative contexts.

This collection sheds light on diverse forms of collective engagement among young people. Recent developments in youth studies, and the changing global shape of socio-economic conditions for young people, demand new approaches and ideas. Contributors focus on novel processes, practices and routines within youth collectivity in various contexts across the globe, including Indonesia, Spain, Italy, Norway and Poland. The chapters pay particular attention to transitional phases in the lives of young people. Conceptually, the book also explores the strengths and limitations of a focus on collectivity in youth studies. Ultimately, the book makes the case for a focus on forms of collectivity and engagement to help scholars think through contemporary experiences of shared social life among young people.

Readership: Scholars, graduate and undergraduate students, and members of the public interested in slavery and bonded labor in Asia, the Indian Ocean world, and elsewhere in the globe.

Readership: Researchers and advanced students in the areas of sociology, cultural studies, youth studies, social movements and globalization.
History of Global Christianity (3 Vols.)
Edited by Jens Holger Schjørring, Norman A. Hjelm and Kevin Ward

History of Global Christianity deals with the history of Christianity and its global development over the past five centuries. Going above and beyond the subject of church history, it deals with the cultural role of Christianity in its widest sense: from the many interactions of Christianity within society, politics, economics, philosophy and the arts, to the myriad of ventures that form civilizations, nations, and communities.

READERSHIP: All interested in the global history of Christianity, its expansion, its relationships to societies and civilizations, and its internal confessional development. Undergraduate and postgraduate students, and students and specialists in history, culture, and ecclesiology.

History of Global Christianity, Vol. I
European and Global Christianity, ca. 1500-1789
Edited by Jens Holger Schjørring and Norman A. Hjelm

In European and Global Christianity, ca. 1500-1789 ten internationally known scholars reflect on the historical factors that have made Christianity a truly global religion that interacts creatively with the myriad ventures that form cultures, societies, and civilizations. This volume concentrates both on the expansion of Christianity that emanated from Europe and the reality of that religion in every part of the world.

History of Global Christianity, Vol. II
History of Christianity in the 19th century
Edited by Jens Holger Schjørring and Norman A. Hjelm

The History of Christianity in the 19th century relates the dynamics of Christianity during the 19th century in ten chapters, addressing parts of the world where Christianity played a role of significance, such as Russia, Africa and the Middle East, as well as the confrontations with different ideologies.

History of Global Christianity, Vol. III
History of Christianity in the 20th century
Edited by Jens Holger Schjørring, Norman A. Hjelm and Kevin Ward

The third volume of History of Global Christianity addresses the 20th century. An international cast of (Church) historians and Religious Studies scholars relate the developments in this century, from the World Wars into postmodern times.
