Military Ethics and Leadership

Edited by Professor Peter Olsthoorn, Netherlands Defence Academy

Leadership and ethics are mostly treated as related though separate phenomena. This edited volume explicitly treats leadership and ethics as a single domain. Military leaders have to deal with personnel who have either used or experienced violence. This intertwinement of leadership and violence separates military leadership from that in other professions.

Didactics of Military Ethics

From Theory to Practice

Edited by Thomas R. Elssner and Reinhold Janke.
With the assistance of Antonia C. Oesterle

This volume provides helpful suggestions concerning the practical communication of findings on military ethics and thus tries to encourage a wider debate. It offers the insights both of officers with combat experience and academics closely familiar with military training, and uniquely bridges the gap between theory and practice in the teaching of military ethics.

Responsibilities to Protect

Perspectives in Theory and Practice

Edited by David Whetham and Bradley J. Strawser

Following the humanitarian horrors of the 1990s, the international community began to seek consensus on a new norm to help address the tension between upholding the sovereign right of states to administer their own internal affairs, and the pressing need for civilian populations to be protected from their own government in certain situations.

Human Rights
Investigating Civilian Casualties in Time of Armed Conflict and Belligerent Occupation

Dr. Alon Margalit

In Investigating Civilian Casualties Alon Margalit discusses the appropriate response to State-caused fatalities. Highlighting various legal and practical challenges, the State's duty to investigate is considered amid increasing public scrutiny and influence of human rights law during military operations.

Wartime Sexual Violence at the International Level: A Legal Perspective

Dr. Caterina E. Arrabal Ward

In Wartime Sexual Violence at the International Level: A Legal Perspective, Dr. Caterina E. Arrabal Ward argues that the human rights of victims of sexual violence are not presently entirely contemplated or protected.

Civil-Military 'Legal' Relations: Where to from Here?

The Civilian Courts and the Military in the United Kingdom, United States and Australia

Prof. Pauline Therese Collins, University of Southern Queensland

This book investigates the place of civilian courts in civil-military theory and their impact on the civil-military relationship in three western liberal democracies. It challenges the evolving civil-military relationship, demanding a re-evaluation of the theory to incorporate the courts.

Holding UNPOL to Account

Individual Criminal Accountability of United Nations Police Personnel

Associate Professor Ai Kihara-Hunt, University of Tokyo

Ai Kihara-Hunt's Holding UNPOL to Account: Individual Criminal Accountability of United Nations Police Personnel analyzes whether mechanisms that address criminal accountability of United Nations police personnel serving in Peace Operations are effective, and if there is a problem, how it can be mitigated.
In Bravery or Bravado? The Protection of News Providers in Armed Conflict, Nina Burri offers the first comprehensive analysis on how international law protects professional and citizen journalists, photographers, cameramen and their support staff during times of war.

In Investigating Operational Incidents in a Military Context, the need for robust investigations into military operational incidents is critical to the proper functioning of militaries and to international justice. Investigating Operational Incidents explores the many challenges surrounding such investigations, the emerging international law, and its likely evolution.

In Sexual Exploitation and Abuse by UN Military Contingents, Róisín Burke explores the difficulty of dealing with sexual offences committed by UN military contingent personnel.

In Status and Treatment of Deserters in International Armed Conflicts, Heike Niebergall-Lackner examines the treatment and protection provided to deserters under human rights law, international humanitarian law and refugee law in international armed conflicts. These questions are discussed in view of the legal duties of soldiers and their criminal responsibility under international law.

In Detention of Non-State Actors engaged in Hostilities: The Future Law, Rose and Oswald explore the armed forces' international legal obligations for management of detainees who are insurgents, saboteurs or terrorists in asymmetrical armed conflicts.

In Bravery or Bravado? The Protection of News Providers in Armed Conflict, Nina Burri offers the first comprehensive analysis on how international law protects professional and citizen journalists, photographers, cameramen and their support staff during times of war.

Increasingly, war is and will be fought by machines – and virtual networks linking machines - which, to varying degrees, are controlled by humans. This book explores the legal challenges for armed forces resulting from the development and use of new military technologies for the conduct of warfare.

This book provides an analysis of the law of targeting during an armed conflict; focusing on what is a lawful target, what is proportional collateral damage, and describing a process by which legal responsibility for targeting decisions can be assessed.

Drawing on the operational experience of United Nations naval peace operations, this book examines issues of authority for such operations as they relate to and impact upon the Territorial Sea.

In this edited collection, leading jurists and scholars examine how far regional and international human rights bodies borrow from and influence each other in their decisions and practices – and whether international human rights law is heading towards fragmentation or greater coherence.

In Cooperation and the International Criminal Court: Perspectives from Theory and Practice, Olympia Bekou and Daley J. Birkett bring together expert contributions from both academia and practice, providing detailed insight into the cooperation regime of the International Criminal Court.
The International Legal Status and Protection of Environmentally-Displaced Persons: A European Perspective

Dr Hélène Ragheboom

This book examines the applicability of refugee law and international human rights law in situations of environmentally-induced displacement, and explores possible future approaches to addressing the issue.

'Seas Refugees' and Migrants at Sea: A Comprehensive Approach

Integrated Maritime Security with Human Rights

Edited by Violeta Moreno-Lax, Queen Mary University of London, and Efthymios Papastavridis, Oxford University

This book aims to address 'boat migration' with a holistic approach. The different chapters consider the multiple facets of the phenomenon and the complex challenges they pose, bringing together knowledge from several disciplines and regions of the world within a single collection.

Non-Refoulement under the European Convention on Human Rights and the UN Convention against Torture

Dr Fanny de Weck, University of Lucerne, Switzerland

This book offers a comprehensive analysis and comparison of the practice and case law of the European Court of Human Rights and the UN Committee against Torture in the assessment of individual complaints concerning the principle of non-refoulement.

Refuge from Inhumanity? War Refugees and International Humanitarian Law

Edited by David James Cantor and Jean-François Durieux

This book contributes to a long-standing but topical debate about whether persons fleeing war to seek asylum in another country – ‘war refugees’ – are protected by international law. It seeks to add to this debate by bringing together a detailed set of analyses examining the extent to which the application of international humanitarian law (IHL) may usefully advance the legal protection of such persons.

Protecting Stateless Persons

The Implementation of the Convention Relating to the Status of Stateless Persons across EU States

Dr. Katia Bianchini, Max Planck Institute, Göttingen

The Protection of Non-Combatants During Armed Conflict and Safeguarding the Rights of Victims in Post-Conflict Society

Essays in Honour of the Life and Work of Joakim Dungel

Edited by Philipp Ambach, Frédéric Bostedt, Grant Dawson, and Steve Kostas

This collection of essays focuses on the protection of the innocent during and after war. It is a tribute to Joakim's life and work. Joakim made a significant contribution to international justice and the rule of law, through his service to the United Nations International Criminal Tribunals.

The Relationship between Economic, Social and Cultural Rights and International Humanitarian Law

An Analysis of Health Related Issues in Non-international Armed Conflicts

Amrei Müller

In The Relationship between Economic, Social and Cultural Rights and International Humanitarian Law, Amrei Müller offers a detailed analysis of the legal consequences of the parallel application of economic, social and cultural rights and international humanitarian law to non-international armed conflicts.

International Human Rights Law Review

Editors-in-Chief: Professor Ilias Bantekas and Professor Manisuli Ssenyonjo

The International Human Rights Law Review is a bi-annual peer-reviewed journal. It aims to stimulate research and thinking on contemporary human rights issues, problems, challenges and policies. It is particularly interested in soliciting papers, whether in the legal domain or other social sciences, that are unique in their approach and which seek to address poignant concerns of our times. One of the principal aims of the journal is to provide an outlet to human rights scholars, practitioners and activists in the developing world who have something tangible to say about their experiences on the ground, or in order to discuss cases and practices that are generally inaccessible to European and North-American audiences.

International Criminal Law Review

Editor-in-Chief: Caroline Fournet

The practice at the ICTY and ICTR has shown that there is no real international criminal (customary) law, but only extrapolations from international public law, general principles of law and humanitarian law. The divide between the so-called common law and civil law systems and their differences in approach to solving legal problems make it necessary to establish an international forum for discussion and development of a common ground on which the work of the international courts can build.
