Jus Mundi – Academic Research

The Search Engine for International Law

The Jus Mundi platform offers a comprehensive, multilingual, and user-friendly search engine for advanced academic research in international law and arbitration. Aimed at judges, academic researchers, legal practitioners, and tertiary students, Jus Mundi covers over 30,000 international law and investor-state arbitration documents, including treaties, ICJ, PCIJ, PCA, ITLOS, ICSID and other arbitration institutions, UNCITRAL, IUSCT documents (judgments, arbitral awards, orders, pleadings, etc.), and decisions of the Mixed Claims Commissions. Commercial arbitration is also exclusively available on Jus Mundi. Jus Mundi offers several advanced linguistic features and more than a dozen filters to narrow down search criteria based on open or specific search strings, legal concepts relevant to the search, case type, decision type, type of legal document, representatives, decision-makers, dates, and more.

Sovereign Limits

Sovereign Limits is an essential tool in the research and visualization of international boundaries. Key components include:

- Highly detailed interactive map, capable of showing boundary data at large scales atop multiple basemap options.
- Over 200 point locations of disputed or contentious sovereignty accompanied by a brief explanation of the conflict.
- Primary sources, maps, and analyses attached to each international boundary.
- "State-view:" Filter the map by a country to see its "sovereign footprint" of land and maritime boundary claims.
- International diplomatic recognition for de facto States and areas of major dispute.
- Combines all land and maritime boundaries into a cohesive database, which enables users to better understand the true sovereign footprint for every State, and their dependencies.

Excessive Maritime Claims

Fourth Edition

J. Ashley Roach

State practice in the law of the sea has continued to evolve since publication of the 3rd edition of Excessive Maritime Claims in 2012. In this 4th edition, J. Ashley Roach has brought the text up to date, particularly as to the provisions relating to the balance of navigational rights and freedoms with the interests of coastal and island States. Of particular interest are the more detailed explanations of the phrase “freedom of navigation”; the expanded material on baselines and on the practice of archipelagic States, the revisions of the material on the continental shelf, on marine data collection, on submarine cables and pipelines, and US Ocean Policy. A new chapter has been added on islands and other maritime features.

This edition is dedicated to Dr. Robert W. Smith, the premier marine geographer.

READERSHIP: Law of the sea and maritime law specialists.

Agency Perception and Moral Values Related to Autonomous Weapons

Ilse Verduyn, the Royal Netherlands Armed Forces and Delft University of Technology

The deployment of Autonomous Weapons gives rise to ongoing debate in society and at the United Nations, in the context of the Convention on Certain Conventional Weapons. Yet there little empirical research has been done on this topic. This volume fills that gap by offering an empirical study based on military personnel and civilians working at the Dutch Ministry of Defence. It yields insight into how Autonomous Weapons are perceived by the military and general public; and which moral values are considered important in relation to their deployment.

Frontiers in International Environmental Law: Oceans and Climate Challenges

*Essays in Honour of David Freestone*Edited by Richard Barnes and Ronán Long

Frontiers in International Environmental Law explores how law and legal scholarship has responded to some of the most important oceans and climate governance challenges of our time. Using the concept of the frontier, each contributor provides a unique perspective on the way that we can understand and can shape the development of law and legal institutions to better protect our marine environment and climate system, and reduce conflicts in areas of legal uncertainty. The authors show how different actors influence legal development, and how legal transitions occur in marine spaces and how change influences existing legal regimes. They also consider how change creates risks for the protection of vulnerable environment, but also opportunities for creative thinking and better ways of governing our environment.

READERSHIP: This book will be of interest to students, academics and practitioners in the law of the sea, international environmental law and international law generally.

Principled Pragmatism in Practice

The EU's Policy towards Russia after Crimea

Edited by Fabienne Bossuyt, Ghent University, and Peter van Elsuwege, Ghent University

As the EU's relations with Russia remain at an all-time low and continue to be in a state of paralysis, marked by de-institutionalisation, inertia and estrangement, the EU's policy towards Russia seems up for review. By taking stock of the implementation of the EU's Global Strategy and the five principles that are guiding EU-Russia relations, this volume provides a forward-looking angle and contributes to a better understanding of the current

EU-Russia relationship and the prospects for overcoming the existing deadlock. By bringing together European and Russian scholars and adopting an interdisciplinary perspective that combines insights from EU studies, international relations, and European and international law, the book provides a comprehensive and holistic view on the state of affairs in EU-Russia relations.

READERSHIP: The book will appeal to students, scholars and policy-makers interested in better understanding the EU-Russia relationship. It offers an interdisciplinary perspective, combining EU studies, European and international law and international relations.
