British Contributions to International Law, 1915-2015 (Set)
A Four-Part Anthology
Edited by Jill Barrett and Jean-Pierre Gauci

The original documentary sources of key British contributions to international law spanning the past 100 years are collected for the first time in this unique anthology (set of 4 books). These range from seminal writings of highly qualified British scholars of international law, judgments of British courts, opinions of British judges on international courts and tribunals and pleadings by British advocates; treaties concluded and statements made by the United Kingdom government, British contributions to international legal drafting, legislation and parliamentary debates; to an imaginative selection of other forms of literature.

The Editors’ introduction explains why, of all the multifarious British contributions, these are the ones that have had the most enduring impact upon the development of international law, from a global perspective. The sheer quality in these texts speaks for itself; these are the must-read and must-keep classic pieces for all interested in international law and the uniquely British contributions to it.

READERSHIP: All interested in international law, especially in its creation, development and enforcement in the UK and worldwide including international lawyers, government officials, legal and international relations scholars, diplomats and legal practitioners.

International Institutional Law

Sixth Revised Edition

Henry G. Schermers and Niels M. Blokker, Leiden University

This sixth, revised edition of International Institutional Law covers the most recent developments in the field. Although public international organizations such as the United Nations, the World Trade Organization, the African Union, ASEAN, the European Union, Mercosur, NATO and OPEC have broadly divergent objectives, powers, fields of activity and numbers of member states, they also share a wide variety of institutional characteristics. Rather than being a handbook for specific organizations, the book offers a comparative analysis of the institutional law of international organizations. It includes chapters on the rules and practices concerning membership, institutional structure, decision-making, financing, legal order, supervision and sanctions, legal status and external relations.

READERSHIP: International law, law of international organizations, international institutional law. The book’s theoretical framework and extensive use of case-studies is designed to appeal to both academics and practitioners.

The Allocation of Power between Arbitral Tribunals and State Courts

Alan Scott Rau

This work begins with the dimensions of “consent” which alone can justify arbitral jurisdiction. The discussion is then carried forward to explore how party autonomy in the contracting process may be expanded, giving rise to the voluntary reallocation of authority between courts and arbitrators. It concludes with the necessary inquiry into the autonomy with respect to the “chosen law” that will govern the agreement to arbitrate itself.

Regionalism and Human Protection

Reflections from Southeast Asia and Africa

Edited by Charles T. Hunt, RMIT University, and Noel Morada, University of Queensland St Lucia

This book provides a detailed examination of how norms concerning human rights, civilian protection and prevention of mass atrocities have fared in the regions of Southeast Asia and Africa. Originated as a spin-off of the journal GR2P (vol. 8/2-3, 2016), it has been enriched with new chapters and revised contents, which contrast the different experiences of those regions and investigates the expression of human protection norms in regional organizations and thematic policy agendas as well as the role of civil society mechanisms/processes. Hunt and Morada have brought together scholar-practitioners from across the world. The collection identifies a range of insights that provide rich opportunities for south-south exchange and mutual learning when it comes to promoting and building capacity for human protection at the regional level.

READERSHIP: This book will be of much interest to students, academics, analysts, practitioners and policy-makers interested in regionalism, regional organizations the evolution of human protection norms in the regions of Southeast Asia and Africa.
