Amsterdamer Beiträge zur neueren Germanistik

Series editors: William Collins Donahue, Norbert Otto Eke, Patrizia C. McBride, and Sven Kramer
Founded by Gerd Labrousse

This series focuses on contemporary contributions in Germanistik / German Studies. Essay collections and monographs are welcome in either German or English.

The Amsterdamer Beiträge zur neueren Germanistik (founded in 1972) is a series for themed-anthologies and monographs offering state-of-the-art research in the field of German-language literature(s) and cultural studies from 1700 onwards. Our mission remains to publish high quality research including new discussions of established authors, research on heretofore neglected masterpieces, as well as the consideration of German literary studies as a discipline both within and beyond the academy. Consequently, the series offers a venue for a variety of genres rediscovered in literature and cultural studies, including the study of the essay, literary biographies and periodicals. We also welcome studies in which German literature is treated in connection with other disciplines such as media studies, the fine arts, as well as the natural sciences.

Matatu

Journal for African Culture and Society

Editor: Gordon Collier, Geoffrey V. Davis, Frank Schulze-Engler, John Njenga Karugia, Aderemi Raji-Oyelade, and Clarissa Vierke
 Technical editor: Gordon Collier

The Matatu is a peer-reviewed journal on African literatures and societies dedicated to interdisciplinary dialogue between literary and cultural studies, historiography, the social sciences and cultural anthropology. The Matatu is animated by a lively interest in African culture and literature (including the Afro-Caribbean) that moves beyond worn-out clichés of “cultural authenticity” and “national liberation” towards critical exploration of African modernities. The East African public transport vehicle from which Matatu takes its name is both a component and a symbol of these modernities: based on “Western” (these days usually Japanese) technology, it is a vigorously African institution; it is usually regarded with some anxiety by those travelling in it, but is often enough the only means of transport available; it creates temporary communicative communities and provides a transient site for the exchange of news, storytelling, and political debate.

The Matatu is firmly committed to supporting democratic change in Africa, to providing a forum for interchanges between African and European critical debates, to overcoming notions of absolute cultural, ethnic, or religious alterity, and to promoting transnational discussion on the future of African societies in a wider world.

Editors-in-Chief: David Damrosch, Harvard University, Theo D'haen, University of Leuven, Jale Parla, Istanbul Bilgi University and Zhang Longxi, City University of Hong Kong
 Managing Editors: Omid Azadibougar, Shiraz University and Esmail Haddadian-Moghaddam, University of Leuven

The Journal of World Literature (JWL) aspires to bring together scholars interested in developing the concept of World Literature, and to provide the most suitable environment for contributions from all the world's literary traditions. It creates a forum for re-visiting global literary heritages, discovering valuable works that have been undeservedly ignored, and introducing aspects of the transnational global dissemination of literature, with translation as a focus. The journal welcomes submissions that can concurrently imagine any literary tradition, in any language, moving beyond national frames to simultaneously discuss and develop the cosmopolitan threads of a variety of literary traditions. It also welcomes contributions from scholars of different research backgrounds working collaboratively as well as from group research projects interested in showcasing their findings, in order to meet the challenge of a wider and deeper discussion of literature's networks.

Samuel Beckett Today / Aujourd'hui

A Bilingual Review / Revue Bilingue

Edited by Sjef Houppermans (Leiden University) and Matthijs Engelberts (University of Amsterdam)

A refereed bilingual journal, Samuel Beckett Today / Aujourd'hui (SBT/A) has established itself as one of the leading international journals in the dynamic field of Beckett studies. A guiding principle of the journal is its openness to diverse disciplinary domains, theoretical perspectives, and discourse styles of scholars writing on Beckett. Bilingual since its inception, it aims to foster dialogue across languages, cultures, and disciplines. The SBT/A accepts submissions of individual articles in English and French at any moment, and publishes these on a regular basis twice a year after peer-reviewing. Proposals for thematic issues, whether based on conferences or not, are welcome; articles in these dossiers are peer-reviewed according to the same procedure as individual articles. Free space (for accepted individual articles that have been accepted for publication) is available in each issue.

Daphnis

Journal of German Literature and Culture of the Early Modern Period (1400-1750)

Zeitschrift für deutsche Literatur und Kultur der Frühen Neuzeit

Chief Editor: Ulrich Seelbach

Review Editor: Ursula Kocher

From its foundation in 1972, Daphnis was conceived as a platform for the publication of research into German literature and culture of the early modern period (14th-18th century). Since then it has developed to take on board interdisciplinary and intercultural perspectives. It is considered today an outstanding international scholarly forum for research into the early modern period. From a comparative point of view it examines the relationship between German literatures and cultural history and the culture of other European (and non-European) countries in the period, as well as such phenomena as cultural transfer. It addresses problems pertaining to the early new high German language and to neo-Latin literature, as well as to new research fields such as intermediality, performance theories or gender studies. Within its four issues a year Daphnis offers the possibility of thematic volumes. With its peer-review procedures, Daphnis is a platform which welcomes previously unpublished contributions (in German or English) under the headings: Research Articles, Miscellaneous Contributions, Bibliography and Book Reviews.

Philological Encounters

Executive Editor: Islam Dayeh (Freie Universität Berlin)

The Philological Encounters is a double-blind peer-reviewed journal dedicated to the historical and philosophical critique of philology. The journal encourages critical and comparative perspectives that integrate textual scholarship and the study of language from across the world. Alongside four issues a year, monographs and/ or collected volumes will occasionally be published as supplements to the journal in the book series Philological Encounters Monographs. The journal is open to contributions in all fields studying the history of textual practices, hermeneutics and philology, philological controversies, and the intellectual and global history of writing, archiving, tradition-making and publishing. Neither confined to any discipline nor bound by any geographical or temporal limits, Philological Encounters takes as its point of departure the growing concern with the global significance of philology and the potential of historically conscious and politically critical philology to challenge exclusivist notions of the self and the canon. The Philological Encounters welcomes innovative and critical contributions in the form of articles as well as review articles, usually of two or three related books, and preferably from different disciplines.

Journal of Arabic Literature

Executive Editor: Muhsin Jassim al-Musawi (Columbia University New York)

Associate Editors: Elizabeth Holt (Bard College), Tarek A. El-Ariss (University of Texas at Austin)

Book Review Editors: Nathaniel Greenberg (George Mason University) and Gretchen Head (Yale-NUS College)

Since its inception in 1970 the Journal of Arabic Literature has provided an international scholarly forum for the discussion of Arabic literature and has secured its position at the forefront of critical and methodological debate. The journal publishes literary, critical and historical studies, as well as reviews and bibliographies, on a broad range of Arabic materials – classical and modern, written and oral, poetry and prose, literary and colloquial. Studies that seek to integrate Arabic literature into the broader discourses of the humanities and social sciences take their place alongside technical work of a more specialized nature. The journal thus addresses itself to a readership in comparative literature and literary theory and method, in addition to specialists in Arabic and Middle Eastern literatures and Middle East studies generally.

Experimental Practices

Edited by Sher Doruff, Gerrit Rietveld Academy, and Amsterdam University for the Arts, and Manuela Rossini, University of Basel, President and Executive Director of SLSAeu

The series seeks to develop the status of science, art, literature and philosophy as truly experimental practices, each of which regularly borrows from any and all of the others in order to further its drive to experimentation, invention and innovation. It builds on the collaborative ethos of the US-based, international Society for Science, Literature, and the Arts (SLSA) and seeks to extend this more actively by extending transdisciplinary exchanges between scholars more firmly into collaborations between scholars and artists or scientists.

Arkyves

Online Reference Tool for the History of Culture

Hans Brandhorst & Etienne Posthumus

Arkyves is both a unique database of images and texts and a meeting place for everyone who wants to study imagery and publish about it. All visual and textual sources are made accessible with the help of the multilingual vocabulary for cultural content of the Iconclass system. By using this system it has been made possible to find and retrieve images and texts from various sources on a specific topic.

By using Arkyves it is currently possible to access more than 500.000 images, texts, etc. from libraries and museums in many countries among them the Rijksmuseum in Amsterdam, the Netherlands Institute for Art History (RKD), the Herzog August Bibliothek in Wolfenbüttel, and the university libraries of Milan, Utrecht and Glasgow. More collections will follow in the near future. The database contains a link to the images which are available in open access.

Arkyves is both a research tool for art historians and book historians, as well as a tool to facilitate the process of describing images.

Brill's Digital Library of World War I

An online resource that contains over 650 encyclopedia entries plus 250 peer-reviewed articles of transnational and global historical perspectives on significant topics of World War I. This collection includes Brill's Encyclopedia of the First World War, an unrivalled reference work that showcases the knowledge of experts from 15 countries and offers 26 substantial themed essays on the major belligerents, society and culture, diplomatic and military events, and the historiography of the Great War.

The 250 articles address not only the key issues from political, historical and cultural perspectives, but also engage with aspects of the war which have remained underexplored such as the neutrals, the role of women, and memory. The chapters have been drawn from a select number of Brill publications that have been published in the last 15 years.

Brill's Digital Library of World War I is a unique digital library offering a range of resources enhanced with navigational tools, and will allow researchers to discover new perspectives and connections.
