acupuncture and moxibustion:
  bleeding stopped with
    moxibustion  12, 109
  and bloodletting  11, 109–110
  and circulation channels. See circulation channels theory
  Dunhuang moxibustion charts  105–106, 107n9, 108n12
  Eishun’s use of moxibustion  118–119
  Irie Yoriaki  120
  and kakké treatments  15, 175–176
  at Keiteki-in (medical school) in the Nara
  period  111–112, 116, 119
  mannequins  105–106n3, 122–123, 122n63
  Misono school approach  12, 119–120, 124
  privileging of moxibustion  11–12,
    106–108, 107n7, 118–119
  Song revival of  12, 108
  texts. See acupuncture and moxibustion
  texts
acupuncture and moxibustion texts:
  Hua Shou’s textbook. See Shiṣijīng fahui (J. fahui)
    Keiteki meido kei fushin shosho  116, 117
  Ming edition of (Zhenjiu) Jiayi jing
    annotated by Kojima Naokata  211
  Tongren yuxue zhenjiu tu jing (Illustrated
    Classic of Acupuncture and Moxibustion
    Points on the Bronze Man)  108, 110
  Xushi zhenjiu daquan (Mr. Xu’s Comprehensive Collection of
    Acupuncture and Moxibustion
    Points on the Bronze Man)  1439)  113 Zhenjiu jiyi jing (The Canon of Acupuncture and Moxibustion)  108 Zhenjiu ju ying (Quintessence of Acupuncture and Moxibustion)  16,
    113, 114, 115n42
Alvarez, Millan C., references to work of 21n2

anatomy and anatomical texts:
  and acupuncture channels  120,
    125–126
  European treatises  90, 91, 93
  the human body as an object of knowledge  11, 81–82, 90–94, 91n38
  organ structure discussed in ancient
    texts  92–93, 94
  Sugita Genpaku’s New Book of Anatomy
    (Kaitai shinsho)  11, 90–91, 93n43, 99

Ancient Formulas School (Koho-ha):
  antiquarian book hunting of  16
  doctors (koho). See Endō Jirō; Gotō
    Konzan; Nagoya Gen’i; Ogyū Sorai; Yamawaki Tōyō; Yoshimatsu Tōdō
  and the “Japanization” of traditional medicine  186
  six patterns ignored by  13, 139
  social and intellectual status of  82, 84
  and Sorai’s ideas  87, 93–94, 98–99
  Zhang Zhongjing’s Treatise as foundational for  11, 81, 87, 89, 135–136
  See also Danxi synthesis
annotated texts:
  Huangdi neiijing of Wang Bing and Yang
    Shangshan  109, 124
  of Hua Shou’s Shiṣijīng fahui  121–122, 121n60
  by Ke Fengshi. See Wuchang Medical School publications
  by Kojima Naokata  196, 198, 210, 211
  Ma Shi’s Suwen zhu zheng fa wei  116
  reading marks (kaeri ten)  113, 121
  Tamura Gensen, Jushikei hakki shō (Elucidation of the Fourteen Channels Annotated)  121, 121n60
  and transmission or migration of scientific knowledge  43–47, 109
  of the Treatise. See Treatise on Cold Damage Disorders—annotated editions

* References to the Treatise in the index refer to Treatise on Cold Damage Disorders (Zhang Zhongjing)
See also Siku quanshu zongmu tiyao
[Annotated catalog of the Complete Library of the Four Treasuries] antiquarianism and antiquarian methods: collected by the Kojima family. See Kojima family; Maijing; Mingtang jing and Han and pre-Han scholarship 72–73 the human body as an object of knowledge. See anatomy and anatomical texts kanpō doctors versed in Chinese classical medical texts. See kanpōyaku (traditional Chinese medicine) and kanpōyaku (traditional Chinese medicine) 158–160 Nietzsche on 159–160 and philology, 2–5, 11, 73, 81–82 "return to antiquity" (fu ko) 10–11, 73, 81, 81–82, 87–89, 124 textual study distinguished from clinical practice 17, 109–110 textual study integrated with clinical practice. See medical case records and traditional pharmacology 13–15, 148–162 and zhezhong. See zhezhong textual traditions See also Ancient Formulas School; evidential study; kanpō texts; medical philology Anzai Yasuchika, reference to work of 83n8 Aoki Toshiyuki, references to work of 81n3, 90n35, 93n43, 95n54, 133n2 Arnold, David, references to work of 116n45, 164n6, 183n75 Asada Sōhaku (1815–1894): on Hata Sōha 116 on kakké associated with modernity 169–170 and kanpōyaku (traditional Chinese medicine) 156–157, 159–160, 169 Kōku mei'i den [Legends of famous doctors from our imperial country] 116 personal history of 155–156 Baigrie, Brian 123 bakumatsu (late Tokugawa Japan). See Tokugawa bakufu (1600–1867) Barnes, Linda, references to work of 105n2 Barshay, Andrew E., 154 Bartholomew, James R., 150 Bay, Alexander, reference to work of 163n2 Bencao yanyi (Augmented Materia Medica): published by Yang Shoujing 192 Qingyuan 1 (1195) edition from the Southern Song 201 of the School of Evidential Studies of Medicine 186 Wuchang publication by Ke Fengshi 197, 200 beriberi. See kakké disorder and beriberi; Western science and medicine Bian Que (legendary doctor) 21, 95 Bitō Masahide, reference to work of 86n19 bloodletting: and acupuncture 11, 109–110n21, 118 used by Ding Fubao (1874–1952) 181 Bol, Peter K., references to work of 55n10 Book of Documents (Shangshu) 92, 94–95 Bray, Francesca, Vera Dorofeeva-Lichtmann, and Georges Métailié 108n15, 123n67 Burns, Susan L., reference to work of 2, 13, 134n5 Cantlie, James 180 Carpenter, Kenneth, reference to work of 178n64 cassia twig decoctions: discussed by Nanayama 143–144 medical cases involving 36–43 Chao, Yuan-ling, reference to work of 74n70 Chen Jie: references to work of 193n16 on Yang Shoujing 192n15, 196 Chen Kezheng, reference to work by 29n28, 33n39 Chen Wenyi, references to work of 55n10, 211n26