Acta Poloniae Historica, a semi-annual journal edited under the auspices of the Committee of Historical Sciences and the Institute of History of the Polish Academy of Sciences, was founded in 1958 to publish the most significant results of historical research conducted in Poland. The journal, published in English (with some articles and reviews in German or French), is the only regular presentation of Polish historiography for the use of foreign scholars and libraries. Each issue contains articles, reviews, abstracts, and conference reports covering a wide thematic and chronological range. The periodical is an important factor in the exchange of information and views between Polish and foreign historians; its main aim is the integration of Polish historiography in international networks of historical study.
