Instructions to Authors

Papers should be submitted using our online electronic submission system which can be accessed at http://www.edmgr.com/hjd. A complete Instructions to Authors is available online on the journal website: brill.nl/hjd.

The Editors welcome original manuscripts for consideration as a main article or as a review article, as well as proposals for special thematic issues of The Hague Journal of Diplomacy (HJD). The length recommended for main articles is 6,000-9,000 words, including footnotes. Review articles should be about 4,000 words and short contributions by practitioners are usually 2,000 words. HJD is a refereed journal. Main articles and review articles are sent to independent referees. Manuscripts are accepted for review on the understanding that they have not been submitted for publication or review elsewhere. Submissions will be acknowledged with a short email.

Manuscripts should be typed with generous margins and should be double spaced throughout. Footnotes should be presented in a list at the end of the article. A summary abstract of approximately 150 words, 3-8 keywords and a short biographical note should accompany the manuscript. Authors are expected to state the total word count for all articles on submission. Any submission not conforming to HJD requirements is incomplete and will be returned to the author(s) for correction.
