International Criminal Law Review

CONTENTS Volume 5, No. 4 2005

Articles

Book Review
International Crimes and the ad hoc Tribunals, by Guenael Mettraux (BING BING JIA) 697–700

Author Index 701
International Criminal Law Review

Guidelines for the submission of documents

Papers for consideration by the editorial board should be sent by email attachment to

Professor Michael Bohlander
Editor-in-Chief
University of Durham
50 North Bailey
Durham DH1 3ET
michael.bohlander@dur.ac.uk

Manuscripts will be refereed by the members of the editorial board and acceptance will be by email from the editor-in-chief.

The Review does not use the Bluebook or any other general formatting guide. The instructions mentioned below must be followed:

Manuscripts should contain no special font formatting features like small caps, all caps, italics, bold, underline etc., with the following exceptions:

- Italics must be used for the names of authors cited in the work, both in the main body of the text and in the footnotes, as well as for case names. They should be used for unusual Latin or other foreign language quotations. Well-known and common expressions such as “de facto, eo ipso, ibid., supra and infra” should be left in normal font type. Italics, not underline, must be used for emphasis.
- Quotations must be marked by ““ and not be indented.
- Law reviews, case collections etc. should be quoted with the full title, i.e. not “ICLR” but “International Criminal Law Review”
- Each paper must contain a list of contents and an abstract of not more than 150 words.

In case of doubt, the author should contact the editor-in-chief.