C. R. Gregory and Hermann von Soden (and helpers) made most of their examinations of the Greek NT mss. in Italy during the years around 1900. In some instances the location or condition of a manuscript has been altered by circumstances since then. Occasionally a correction of their description is in order. The lists remain remarkably complete.

In 1951 and 1953 the writer, aided by a Fulbright grant, made examinations of the texts of the Greek Gospel mss. (not usually including lectionaries) in Italy. Incidental to this project are the following notes containing information by which the data in Gregory's and von Soden's catalogues may be revised 1). These notes should be complete in so far as the location and condition of the mss. are concerned, but the catalogue descriptions were not systematically checked for accuracy. The writer's examination of Greek Gospels in the Vatican and at St. Mark's, Venice, was not completed, but these collections are presumed to be still intact. No war damage to mss. was discovered, although some of the libraries were still repairing damage to the buildings.

TURIN

The entire manuscript collection of the University Library in Turin was badly damaged by fire in 1904. The oriental codices were entirely destroyed except for one; the greater part of the French and some of the Greek, Latin and Italian were consumed. The remains, damaged by fire and water, were scrupulously collected and conserved.

A special laboratory for restoration was opened promptly, but the work was slow. From 1904 to 1917 only thirty-one codices were processed, but with good results for both the miniatures and text. Another 113 went through a more rapid process with less good results, but are suitable for consultation 1). The present conditions of the Greek NT mss. are set forth below.

GREG. Hp or 015. Two folios (314 and 315) containing I Tim. 6 : 9-13; II Tim. 2 : i-9. Condition satisfactory. Housed in separate box. (Its library number, 83 (B.I.5), also refers to a bound ms. from which the two NT folios have been separated).

GREG. e332. Less than two-thirds of the original 301 folios survive. These are burned and stained around the outside portions. Restoration is completed. Now kept unbound in a box. Pages crinkled; useless for filming. In the restoration (?) new numbers were given to the pages, but they are in complete disorder; it is very difficult to find any particular passage (Cf. v. SODEN A209). Surviving portraits: Matthew (f. 3), Mark (f. 80), Luke (f. 129v).

GREG. e333. The centers of the pages are clear; much of the writing toward the margins is illegible due to having been water soaked. Additional note: Fols. 1-3 (v. SODEN: 1-5) and 366-377 are by a second hand (unnoticed by GREGORY), which wrote the colophon (f. 377r):

\[\text{τὸ παρὸν βιβλίον εἶχεν οὕτως τὸ ετος έν τῷ πεπαλαιωμένῳ αὐτοῦ φυλλῷ καὶ μετέτει θες πνευματικων ετος Τ Ψ Κ Β Ν/Γ}\]

GREG. e334. The last few folios have water stains but are legible.

GREG. e335. Intact. The last pages are a bit water stained, but all are legible. Paper.

GREG. e338. One folio from the Canon Tables survived.

GREG. eap339. Complete examination not allowed, as ms. was still in restoration. Unbound, badly crinkled pages; useless for filming; many pages partially burned away. Minute writing. Fols. 1-30 badly damaged; 31-67, partly legible. The re-
