Soviet Syllabi on Public International Law:
A Preliminary Checklist*

*Based on the holdings of the Lenin Library; the Fundamental Library of Social Sciences of the USSR Academy of Sciences; the Gor’kii Library of Moscow State University; and the State Public Historical Library of the RSFSR. With the stabilization of law in 1936-37, the All Union Institute of Juridical Sciences was given responsibility for developing the syllabi for legal institutes, schools, and law courses in all branches of law. These syllabi would form the base for the preparation of textbooks in each subject, the latter with a few exceptions (including public international law) also being written within the Institute. A report on the Institute’s twenty years of activity indicates that syllabi for public international law were issued annually from 1938 to 1940 under the same title as the 1938 entry. See B. S. Utevskii and B. Osherovich, Dvadtsat’let vsesoiuznogo instituta iuridicheskikh nauk (Moscow, 1946), pp. 22-23.
